Summary

The Council held five public hearings on the Chub Mackerel Amendment during December 2018 and January 2019 and also accepted written comments through January 18, 2019. The public hearings were attended by 21 members of the public, 14 of whom provided verbal comments. Ten individuals submitted written comments by email or through an online form. Ten organizations submitted written comments. In addition, the Pew Charitable Trusts submitted a letter with 14,957 signatures.

Transcripts of the public hearing comments as well as all written comments are included with this document.

Comments in favor of alternatives presented in the public hearing document are summarized in Table 1. Most comments addressed high-level management questions rather than specific management measures. For example, most comments addressed the need to manage, or not manage, chub mackerel as a stock in the fishery, as well as the question of whether optimum yield (OY) should be less than or equal to the acceptable biological catch (ABC) value recommended by the Scientific and Statistical Committee (SSC). In contrast, very few comments addressed the accountability measure (AM) and permitting requirement alternatives (Table 1).

The overwhelming majority of comments (14,974) supported managing chub mackerel as a stock in the MSB FMP (alternative 2). This alternative was supported by conservation advocates, as well as commercial and recreational fishermen and fishing organizations, and others. Four comments, representing commercial fishing interests, a recreational fishing organization, and a private citizen, supported no action on this amendment (alternative 2A). As shown in Table 1, most comments in favor of no action cited extreme data limitations. Most comments in favor of managing chub mackerel as a stock in the FMP cited ecosystem considerations and a general need for catch limits.

Most comments supported setting OY lower than the ABC. A total of 14,963 comments either asked the Council not to increase catch limits or specified that the landings limit should remain 2.86 million pounds per year, as implemented through the Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment. Three comments supported setting OY equal to the ABC.

A few comments addressed alternatives which were not included in the document. For example, limited access is not under consideration through this action but was recommended by three comments. All three comments essentially requested that only individuals with directed MSB commercial fishery permits be allowed to harvest notable quantities of chub mackerel, while all others be limited to incidental possession limits.

One individual recommended that recreational anglers using chub mackerel as live bait not be subject to AMs.

One comment suggested that if the Council sets the management unit as Maine through Florida, then expected South Atlantic catch need not be subtracted from the ABC, as described in the public hearing document, because the value of the expected South Atlantic catch would likely be inconsequentially small.

One comment requested that the Council engage more with highly migratory species fishery participants, specifically through Advisory Panel membership.

Table 1: Summary of comments in favor of alternatives presented in the Chub Mackerel Amendment public hearing document.

Alternative/ Sub-Alternative	Number of Comments in Favor and Example(s) of Rationale
1: No action	4 "It's a complete waste of time trying to come up with all the criteria needed for a management plan for something you know absolutely nothing about." "While RFA understands that the current specifications expire at the end of 2020, RFA cannot support moving forward with new specifications that nearly double the commercial chub harvest before the studies are concluded. RFA suggests extending the current commercial specifications through an addendum to the forage fish omnibus amendment until the studies are concluded and the council has the information necessary to move forward in a responsible manner."
2: Manage chub mackerel as a stock in the MSB FMP	14,974 "What if Omega Protein steps in and says this looks like a good thing for this company? We could have no limits on it. Let's take this on... If you could put some limits on things now, it would make that more difficult." "The only hope we have long-term is gathering real data on this species. So, we really need an FMP. It seems like it's pointing us in that direction. If we have an FMP, we could find a way to get better data to find out how many there are. Because now we have no idea."

3.A: OY = ABC	3 "The SSC has used its expert judgement in establishing this ABC." "This level of catch is not the result of an extensive amount of fishing effort but rather, as the catch data shows, the result of a small number of vessels targeting chub mackerel when it is available. We support the idea of switching species based on availability... especially if doing so may alleviate pressure on a species that is less abundant that year."
3.B: OY is less than ABC	14,965 "Chub is a very data limited fishery and, as such, necessitates this careful, science-driven approach if we are to keep the stock and the commercial and recreational fisheries that depend on it healthy." "By keeping more fish in the water, managers can invest in the future of the resource as well as other fisheries that depend on healthy and abundant populations of chub mackerel. This precautionary approach to management is supported by the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act and the National Standard guidelines, where attention should be given to managing forage stocks for higher biomass to enhance and protect the marine ecosystem."

Chub Mackerel Amendment

Public Hearing Transcripts

The Council held five public hearings on the Chub Mackerel Amendment in December 2018 and January 2019. Verbal comments provided at the hearings are transcribed below. Comments were transcribed verbatim to the extent practicable with minor edits for clarity.

Virginia Beach, VA
December 3, 2018

Attendees: Julia Beaty (Council staff), Peter deFur (Council member), Zack Greenberg (Pew Charitable Trusts), Catherine Kilduff (Center for Biological Diversity), Rob O'Reilly (Council member), Rick Robins, Mark Swingle (Virginia Aquarium)

Comments:

Rick Robins: Three of the permit holders that spend the most time in the white marlin fishery live baiting with chub mackerel couldn't be here tonight. It's unfortunate that we don't have more perspectives here tonight. I'll look forward to encouraging public comment as the Council continues to develop the amendment. I'm very encouraged to see the Council making a significant investment in this diet study. That's a great step forward. As I hear the presentation and discussion about potential social and economic impacts, what I don't hear as much of and what causes me concern are the risks associated with expansion of this fishery to those extant HMS fisheries. I believe when you go through the diet study, if it is comprehensive spatially and temporally throughout the region, you'll see a very significant role played by chub in the diets of yellowfin tuna, and also predominantly white marlin and to some extent blue marlin. I think what's important to understand is what their role is, not just in terms of stomach contents but also how that plays out in the system in terms of the way in which chub mackerel hold those predators basically up and down the edge. That translates into availability of those HMS fish to the HMS fishery. In late spring out of Rudee Inlet and also out of Oregon Inlet in North Carolina, there's a very big fishery for yellowfin tunas. That fishery starts in April to May and it's a very productive fishery. It has fluctuations from year to year. Their diet changes at times. But in that early fishery for the last few years, they've been predominantly feeding on chub mackerel. All the stomachs that I've cut open down there of yellowfin have had a lot of chub mackerel in them. Occasionally we'll have a fish that just has a flying fish head in it or something else, but the predominant prey has been chub mackerel. Those schools of chub that we're fishing around will hold the yellowfin in that area. So they play a really significant role in the system as it relates to the human interactions with that HMS fishery. I think you would have consequences if you allowed a large-scale directed fishery to develop for chub in the absence of understanding that ecologically and also economically. You would be incurring risk and cost for that HMS fishery that really wouldn't be well understood. As the Council moves forward, it would be appropriate to manage the risk and keep an OY value within the historical footprint of the fishery until you know more about these tradeoffs. Once you do the diet study, you'll probably have a more comprehensive picture of how significant these interactions are. I don't know how many billfish stomachs you're going to collect. It's not practical to collect a whole lot of them. It's such a limited fishery. It's an ICCAT limited quota and retention is discouraged. I just don't know how many stomach samples you're going to get. But here in the Virginia Beach area over the last 7 or 8 years there has been a significant development in that live bait fishery where folks go out to Norfolk Canyon, typically on the southeast corner. From some point in June throughout the rest of the summer season, you can almost consistently count on catching chub mackerel for live bait. Most of the chub mackerel caught in this region are caught as live bait for billfish. It's a very significant fishery that's developed. The efficacy of live baiting is much more potent than trolling, so they tend to rack up very impressive catch numbers in the marlin fishery using chub mackerel as live bait. In light of that, I would also suggest that you think about ways to potentially immunize the catch for live bait of chub mackerel against AMs in the recreational fishery. For example, some outcome whereby the recreational fishery was completely foreclosed because it had a quota overage in a year ought to be avoided, at least as it relates to live bait because that's probably the highest use of the resource as it relates to economics here in the U.S. I don't think you can overstate the importance of this stomach content work so you can see how these chub mackerel move through the system and interact with the species we're talking about. They are very commonly seen here in the stomachs of yellowfin tunas and wahoos and our other predatory HMS species. With respect to OY and the ecosystem approach to fisheries, I think the prudent way to go forward would be to keep OY within a historical range of the fishery and not allow expansion until you have a good understanding of what those tradeoffs might be. And at this point, the Council doesn't have that, so I think an expansion of the fishery at this point would be imprudent. But I think moving forward with putting it as a stock in the fishery is the right thing to do. It sounds like you've thought about the range of management. That can be coastwide. I think that would also be indicated, because otherwise you could have a disjointed situation. We've seen it before with other fisheries. I think the Council's investment will be a good one in trying to do the stomach content analysis.

Julia Beaty: The SSC recommended a 5.07 million pound ABC, which is technically within the historical range. Do you think that's acceptable?

Rick Robins: If I were commenting on the quota, I would encourage the Council to set it at more of an average range. This is a very modern phenomenon. Some of the fishermen have indicated that they target them when squid are not readily available. I would argue that if that's the case, the ecological importance of chub mackerel at that point in time is probably greater than ever, if it's at a place and time when Illex are not readily available. Because they're in the same depth strata when they're fishing. A lot of this activity is in 60-80 fathoms. That also happens to overlap with the most heavily fished HMS corridor, between 50 and 100 fathoms.

Catherine Kilduff: I work for the Center for Biological Diversity. I would ask the Council to consider the marine mammals and seabirds as part of the ecosystem too. There are a couple of species that while there might not be good evidence that they depend on chub mackerel, they are eating forage fish off the U.S. coast and they are either under an unusual mortality event like humpback whales or minke whales or they are declining like North Atlantic right whales. These are really important species that our members care a lot about. One example, the North Atlantic right whale is at risk of entanglements, which is not on its face related to forage fish, but it's actually directly related to forage when the whales move into places that overlap with fishing gear where they haven't been before. So, if you see a spike in entanglements, it's often because they are moving because of changes in environmental factors like sea surface temperature and going to a different place to find food. When marine mammals are moving in response to environmental change, they are often subject to new threats like entanglements or ship strikes and that's because they are looking for forage food. The second point is related to the stomach content study. I think you could get something quantitative out of that study, like how much is needed to feed those pelagic fish. You could also get qualitative data on when those fish are caught, what other animals are around them. Often there are seabirds and marine mammals that are eating right around tuna and other pelagic predators. If you could have the second year of the study have some of that qualitative observational data, like we also saw these seabirds and marine mammals, then perhaps you could see what other groups are feeding on the chub mackerel. In terms of the quantitative data, I've heard that you should leave a third for the birds. If you do get quantitative data out of that stomach content analysis, you should make sure that you allocate some of that not just for the fish, but also for the birds and marine mammals. My third point is that the whale watching industry off Virginia Beach is relatively new and I'm very excited that there are boats out of Rudee Inlet and the Virginia Aquarium. They depend on a healthy Chesapeake Bay and a healthy Atlantic Ocean and whales coming to eat.

Zack Greenberg: I'm with Pew Charitable Trusts. Pew will be submitting a formal policy letter as we usually do. Just a few quick points. I want to say thank you to the Council for taking this management action forward. We support the stock in the fishery designation and full management of chub mackerel. EAFM was brought up earlier, we also encourage the Council to follow the recommendations in that document for chub mackerel. There are data limitations, but that doesn't forgo the Council's responsibility to manage this species for its role as forage and balance those social, economic, and ecological tradeoffs as well. In that aspect, we would say set OY less than the ABC to account for that role as forage. We believe that's supported by Council's own documents, as well as the MSA National Standards Guidelines.

Rick Robins: I think a couple of years ago the HMS division of the agency was trying to do an economic survey of HMS tournaments along the east coast. I'm not sure what the level of participation was by the HMS tournaments here. I'm thinking not all of them participated in providing data. But I think they engaged a contractor and initiated an economic study of the HMS tournaments. I would suggest that the Council try to track that down. I think having an understanding of the HMS economics is a very important part of this discussion and it has not previously been well understood or quantified at a level that would be informative for the Council. I think that's important for the Council to have.

Attendees: Julia Beaty (Council staff), Steve Doctor (Maryland Department of Natural Resources), Zack Greenberg (Pew Charitable Trusts), Sonny Gwin (Council member), Budd E. Heins (Ocean Pines Anglers, Atlantic Coast Sportfishing Association), John McFalls (Ocean Pines Anglers, Atlantic Coast Sportfishing Association)

Comments:

Steve Doctor: For your proposed EFH descriptions, you have 1,000 feet for juveniles and adults. Your picture of where they are caught is right up against that. You're cutting it close. It looked like you were off the shelf from that picture...Jan McDowell at VIMS has been sampling the stomach contents from the Mid-Atlantic and the White Marlin Tournaments for years. They haven't been testing the mackerel at all. They've just been summarizing what's in them. There have been mackerels, but I don't know if they've been classified.

Budd Heins: What if Omega Protein steps in and says this looks like a good thing for this company? We could have no limits on it. Let's take this on. If they could figure out a way to use those fish - that will take a long time to get that going, to go through all the processes to try to do that. If you could put some limits on things now, it would make that more difficult...Backing up to where you were saying whether to [close the commercial fishery in-season when] 90, or 95 or 100% [of the quota is landed and then have a possession limit] - you shouldn't even need [to allow possession] because in order to catch that fish, they have to target that. So they would go after that 40,000 pounds, or whatever. So why would you even need that? If you want to allow a buffer, do it at 1,000 pounds.

John McFalls: If I were a blue water fishermen fishing for tunas or marlins, I'd certainly be interested in this, more so than I am. I'm surprised we don't have people from the marlin club here to represent that view.

Steve Doctor: It just seems weird to me that you would go to 5 million pounds out of nowhere. It makes me wonder if they were classifying them as Atlantic mackerel before...We used to have a winter Atlantic mackerel fishery. It was around March...Are you sure you want to go through all this work for this species? The landings are insignificant...You probably want to set it up so you don't have to do an amendment every year. It could just roll. It'd be nice to have it in place in case they did get a jump in attention or landings. Five million pounds is not a bad idea to put it in place [as an ABC] so you don't have to do a framework every year.

John McFalls: I'm probably naïve, but I look at the Magnuson-Stevens Act generally. It says we should have sustainable fisheries. So I'm surprised that we've got fisheries that aren't managed!

Zack Greenberg: It's an important action for the Council to take. There's a lot we don't know about chub mackerel. We don't know what the underlying population could be. We know there's chub mackerel present worldwide, but on the Atlantic coast, it could be a lot, it could be a little. If it develops into something, it's worth having some framework in place so we can have that precautionary approach. We can account for that role but also make sure there's enough to go around at the end of the day. Pew comes into this as it's a forage species. There's not a lot of data around it. It's something to manage, take a precautionary approach, follow that MSA regulation on sustainable fisheries but make sure we have a forage base to support everything else out in the ocean. The Council does have, through the Unmanaged Forage Amendment, the spirit of where this is coming from and their Ecosystem Approach to Fisheries Management Guidance Document as well has some language about setting catch limits when there's not a lot of data. We like what the SSC has recommended, we think it's a good start, but we support the precautionary approach, setting OY less than the ABC to account for that.

Budd Heins: I would like to say that I've been after management of forage species forever, since I've been down here. All of them, not just one or two. Spot in particular. I think they should all be managed. I know it takes some time to get stock assessments and everything, but at some point we need to do it. There are so many people fishing, commercial and recreational and it increases all the time. The take is increasing all the time. I don't see how they sustain themselves as it is now. We need to put limits on everything.

John McFalls: When I moved here twenty-some years ago, we used to have a terrific Atlantic mackerel fishery in March. You could go offshore and get mackerel. The guys would really bring them in. Now there is no fishery for Atlantic mackerel because they are not there. Where are they? It's a mystery. What happened to spotted sea trout and weakfish? We don't have them anymore either. When I moved here, I could catch all I wanted. But now they are gone. Maybe the small chub mackerel were prey for the weakfish and spotted sea trout. I don't know. It's a mystery. I'm glad you're looking at it. It's important. We've got grandkids who want to catch fish.

Narragansett, RI

December 17, 2018

Attendees: Julia Beaty (Council staff), Karson Coutré (Council staff), Glenn Goodwin (F/V Persistence and F/V Relentless), Meghan Lapp (Seafreeze Ltd.), Eric Reid (Council member)

Comments:

Glenn Goodwin: I wonder why the Gulf stock is any different. I think basically all we're getting is a little piece of the stock in the Gulf that comes up when conditions are just right. I've fished all the way around from here to Texas. I can tell you that it's connected because I've caught them off both coasts of Florida and all the way across the Gulf. We'd catch little ones way in the south and then they'd get bigger again once you got in the Gulf. Probably 90% of them are in the Gulf. Some of them come up here if conditions are right or with the food they chase. The effort only shifts over when they come in and take over an area and you can't catch any Illex. But that's never something you can count on. Sometimes they're there and somethings they aren't. That's the nature of it. We've been trying to get a market going for these fish since the '80s. With the lack of northern mackerel in 2013, there was a void in the market, in the bait markets. That's why you saw that spike. The Illex fishery was subpar and the chub mackerel just happened to be there. And if they're in the area, you don't catch any squid. Once they go in the mouth of the net, the squid won't go in there. You catch them because nothing else is available. We have put trips together in the Gulf where we actually targeted them, because, again they were one of the only things that were available. We actually landed them in Corpus Christi the last time we were in the Gulf, so that's how far to the west we were. Just a brief history on chub mackerel! ... This past season was our 32nd year participating in the Illex fishery. Some years we need to use all of our range, from Cape Hatteras up to the Canadian boundary. Some years we don't. When fishing is good, we don't need to stretch out that far. When we're on the southern end of it is when we tend to see the interactions. The last few years we haven't had to go down that far. We'd rather catch squid. Those fish grow so fast and they're just going as fast as you can imagine all the time. They're eating krill. They're eating anything, really. They'll mow down just about anything. They're always full of these enzymes that make them go bad really fast. In a matter of hours they'll go from alive to the belly's falling out. It's a very low quality product, unfortunately. We're freezing them right on the boat. It's hard to get them in the box. And then by the time block thaws out, all that activity in their bellies starts right up again. They look ok and then you pick it up and there will be a hole blown in the other side of the fish. So I don't picture a huge fishery starting up unless that was all they could catch. At the current capacity of the squid fishery, 2500 tons would be about one trip for everyone. If everyone targeted mackerel, you'd get one trip out of it and then it would be closed. Without knowing anything about its stock size or abundance other than what landings represent, it doesn't tell you very much. It doesn't tell you anything, really...No one's spent more time out there riding around, not setting in because it was all chub mackerel than me. Our marketers in our office will say, no more! We don't want it! We've got enough already! That's just the nature of it. It's been a bycatch fishery. Rather than throwing them overboard, we've tried desperately to create markets for them. When we first started in 1986, we could hardly sell Illex squid, so you can see where it goes over time. Create some demand somewhere if you're putting up a product that's useable.

Meghan Lapp: I believe right now the Council doesn't have enough data to achieve any of its goals or objectives. We don't have the data to set an ABC or an OFL or have biological reference points or manage a fishery. All the potential benefits or non-benefits, everything is a guess. Because the federal fishery survey is not going to sample these fish, the only data we have is coming from the commercial fishery. I believe that for now the Council should go with no action and develop some kind of plan to collect data from the commercial fishery that down the road can be used to provide the information necessary for proper management. I think we have an opportunity to do that with this fishery that we maybe didn't have previously with other fishery management plans that the Council manages. I think this is an opportunity to do that and to get the right data going in before we develop a plan. Anything else is just going to be a complete guess. I don't think that's appropriate and I don't think that's fair for the fishery, which was encouraged by NMFS to go out and catch these fish in the first place. So right now, I think we would support no action and move forward with collecting data collaboratively with the commercial fishery to do something like this down the road.

Glenn Goodwin: I would have to agree that you should go with no action. I don't see how the Council or the agency could have any idea how many are available, where the majority might be. There's no way of knowing that. Take it from someone who's traveled through the Gulf of Mexico in the '80s, '90s, and early 2000s. We saw bodies of fish down there that were some of the largest migrations I've ever seen of chub mackerel. There were 35 mile long schools of chub mackerel in all depths of water. They just happened to be on the bottom when we were trying to catch butterfish. At that time, they were on the bottom, but I'm sure they spend most of their lives in the mid water column. To think that you would know how many of them are out there - personally, it's a complete waste of time trying to come up with all the criteria that's needed for a management plan for something that you know absolutely nothing about. I could be blindfolded and throwing darts at a wall and I would come up with a number that would be just as accurate as what any one of the experts could come up with. If you've never ridden around in the ocean and witnessed it yourself and had the capability of knowing what you're looking at on the machine while you're shooting your trawl out and hauling back and having a 10,000 pound tow followed by a 10,000 pound tow, by a 10,000 pound tow for days on end when that's all you can catch, is chub mackerel, and trying to put a number on that resource size and value - it pains me to see the Mid-Atlantic Council spend this much time preventing something from happening. This unmanaged forage fish thing has been nothing short of - it's troubling to see what effort has gone into it, what this management body has gone through to keep people from doing anything. That's basically what it is. It's an effort to stop people from ever getting started in a fishery, no matter what the socioeconomic benefit could be, whether it was a cure for cancer or a food source for hungry Africans. It kind of blows my mind. Where would we be as a country if we first used that mindset when we steamed across the Atlantic? I don't mean to be the skunk at the lawn party, but it's just mind boggling, really, that the effort would go into this. If they were worth $2 a pound, this place would be half full of people scrambling to figure out how they're going to get their chunk of the gold rush. But as you can tell, they are pretty cheap and there's not a big demand for them. When we started freezing loligo squid, most of them were going up foreign vessels' ramps. Nobody wanted those either and look what it's turned into and what it's produced for economic activity up and down the coast. I'm not saying that it won't, but preventing someone from ever getting started doesn't seem to be a big benefit to anyone. I'm more than happy to help figure out how many of them there could be at some point. I have suggestions. The Gulf has been running a trawl survey down there since, I don't know, the early '80s. So they've got an idea of how many there are. They use large mesh Shuman trawls that could actually catch some if they were there instead of what we see these days. There is some kind of benchmark, I guess, for how many of them there might be.

Comments:

Josh O'Connor: I wonder if the amount of bait was looked at in the HMS fisheries. Because I know there was concern from the HMS fishermen. The effect of how many chub mackerel are being caught, that it was going to hurt their species that they fish for. Have we looked at how much mackerel bait is being bought and used for those species - commercial landings being sold as bait?

Julia Beaty: No.

Joe Cimino: It could be reported as undisclosed species or not identified species.

Jeff Kaelin: That issue came up with the diet study, didn't it? How do you differentiate the live bait from what they're eating in the wild?

Julia Beaty: They seemed confident that they could do that.

Wayne Reichle: Lund's Fisheries sells a lot of mackerel for bait around the country. Generally, the recreational and commercial fishermen prefer the cold water mackerel over warm water mackerel because the skin is thicker and it has better hook retention. The chub mackerel that we're catching here, during periods that we are catching them, are generally fatty fish. They have pretty thin skin and they have very poor hook retention. So, for recreational fishermen, it's not an ideal bait unless it's being caught live and used live.

Jeff Kaelin: How likely is it that the Council will choose no action? Because we were just sitting here talking and we were thinking maybe our preferred option is no action, to go back to the way things were before the Forage Amendment when the agency just said report what you're catching. There was no concern from the government that we were taking too much mackerel. But I just don't know that that's going to be the outcome. Therefore, I think we would put comments together on which of these options, if there is an FMP, we would prefer. I'm not sure no action is going to happen. So, I'm not sure if we want to hang our hat on that.

Julia Beaty: I think that's a safe strategy, to not hang your hat on it. It has been discussed. I don't know that many Council members have been explicit on if that's what they want. I know GARFO has some concerns about no action because of the 10 factors in the National Standards Guidelines that you should think about if something needs to be a stock in the fishery. It says things like, are there competing interests? Is there a developing fishery that could benefit from development of an FMP? GARFO has said that they want the Council to think about that list. They've indicated to me that if the Council takes no action, they'll have to make an argument for why those things don't apply.

Jeff Kaelin: I think our justification for the 5 million pounds is, you've got to have an active fishery to be able to have any data and I think that's why the SSC agreed. Have the fishery, have some data, begin to understand the stock better over time. I think absolutely, we support the SSC's recommendation. We were pretty vocal a month or so ago, before this document was changed, that it's not up to the public whether we should fish lower than the ABC set by the SSC. Of course, that's always an option for the Council. We know that. You've got to have a fishery to have 5 million pounds.

William Bright: On the grant for the stomach content, I'm still a little confused. What exactly does that prove? If we have a lot of mackerel in the contents, that obviously means there's a lot of mackerel around. I don't know how you're going to track much because you're taking these stomach samples at certain spots and you know these fish are highly migratory. You can actually have no stomach samples positive for the chub mackerel, or you could have a lot. Maybe you could explain what they're actually trying to accomplish here. Are you trying to say that if they're eating them, that nobody else should get them? That's almost what it seems like to me. If it comes back negative, wow, there isn't enough to fish on. If it comes back positive, well we shouldn't take them because our fish, our play toys, are eating them. I'm a little confused why that money was given out. How much was that grant for, out of curiosity?

Julia Beaty: It was about $100,000. I think that will be a challenge, in terms of once we get the results, what do we do about it? I think there are two levels of what the Council is trying to understand. The first level is, are they eaten at all? We have HMS anglers coming to meetings saying they see chub mackerel in the stomachs. But we don't have data to back that up. So, on the one hand this is trying to get quantitative data. Are they even eaten at all? And if they are, how important are they? Are they eaten a lot or a little? Then you have to decide what does that mean? And I think that's uncertain, in terms of what is the Council going to do with that information. I think the Council wants to get better data on it, and then decide what to do about it.

William Bright: So while we're looking at that, are we also determining what they actually are eating? So, they're going to come out and say it's 86% Illex, or whatever?

Julia Beaty: Yeah, they are going to look at everything.

John Manderson: But all those issues have been tabled. What you're focused on are these alternative management measures. They set that aside, at this point. Any spatial or temporal management or forage stuff has been set aside.

William Bright: And the only hope we have long-term is gathering real data on this species. So, we really need a fisheries management plan. It seems like it's pointing us in that direction. If we have a fisheries management plan, we could find a way to get better data to find out how many there are. Because now we have no idea. And years when the Illex price is high, everyone's going after Illex and not chasing these. The problem is there's only 6 vessels on the east coast that are going to catch them and two of them are sitting right here. He's going to catch more than me, unfortunately. He's got the horsepower.

Jeff Kaelin: I'll just walk through these quickly. I used your table 1 as a guide. Maybe some of these positions will change between now and January. We already talked about the low likelihood that the Council will take no action. Assuming that, we're totally fine with having this be one of the FMPs in the squid, mackerel, butterfish suite. We weren't in favor of having chub mackerel managed as a stock in the Illex fishery. I think the Council has moved away from that now, so we support that. I think that's right - a free standing FMP within that suite. I think the use of the language "stock in the fishery" gets confused because there's a real definition of what a stock in the fishery is in the National Standards Guidelines. We're good with a standalone FMP within that suite and therefore following the mackerel, squid, butterfish specifications process. As far as the management unit goes, it really doesn't make much sense to us to manage it below North Carolina. So 2BII is the best option. That actually changed while we were sitting here talking about it. Taking out the expected catch, which is 0.3% - do you really have to do that? I'm not sure. We hate it when you have to take fish off the top for Canada. We do that all the time. And now we've got to take it off for South Carolina? I don't know. I'm not really sure about that. What about Mexico or Texas? We need to learn a lot about this stock when it's here. I think we're OK with the goals and objectives. A lot of time has been spent on those. One of the things I like in there is there is some recognition that this is a potential for this region because of a warming ocean. I think this document really underplays - and the Council really hasn't done a good job with emerging fisheries. This is an opportunity. You don't see landings a hundred years ago. Although, John, I think you did find a reference where the chub mackerel were here that long ago. I think we're in favor of a management unit through NC and I don't know that you need to take the 0.3% off the top. We don't see a need to separate commercial and recreational catch limits at this time. Though I would encourage recreational reporting. You mentioned earlier, Julia, that this species ID guide is something you were trying to get into the MRIP group. I think that's a good thing. We would support that. It should be reported so we learn more about the fishery and the stock. Closure at 100% is probably as conservative as we need to be. I don't think you need an earlier closure. We support the continuation of the 40,000 pound incidental possession limit that we have today. I guess we can't escape the ACL overage payments. That's just going to happen. But to have an ACL for the recreational and an ACL for the commercial, I don't think we're convinced that that makes sense at this point in time. On permits, from the little we've talked about it, I think we feel that any commercial mackerel, squid, or butterfish permit should be enough. I don't think you need another permit. I've said it many times - I think you understand it and the Council does too - this is a real small universe of vessels that's been able to operate and take these fish because they swim so fast. You need a lot of horsepower. So we don't see a need for a separate permit. I don't think you need a special party/charter permit either, as long as they are reporting. Any GARFO party/charter permit, not a special permit. OY should be equal to ABC. The ABC should be 2300 metric tons. I don't see any need for an ACT. It's such a small amount of fish on a stock that at least geographically is huge, so we don't see a need to be really conservative there. We'll say it here like we have for the last couple of years - we're glad that there's no spatial and temporal restrictions proposed here. Obviously, that would have a significant negative impact on the Illlex fishery which has been successful the last couple of years. And as you know, we're not catching chub if we're catching Illlex. We're glad that that threat has been removed. We think that's appropriate. The last thing I would like to say is, I still would like to know what we accomplished with the Forage Amendment in terms of the potential out there that is being set aside. It just doesn't seem to make sense to me that we've done that. We've given up sand lance. We've given up all these things. But yet, a group could come along and say you shouldn't be taking two million pounds of mackerel because something in the ocean might eat it. As commercial fishermen in this region, we gave up access to these other stocks. We didn't get anything of any benefit. We got nothing tangible or quantifiable in benefits. I think that's an important issue when the Council is considering whether to have 5 million pounds or 2.5 million pounds. The forage base is being protected, not only this fishery, but the amount of squid and everything else that we leave in the water. Because we don't know how much squid we leave in the water. That's a whole other issue. It's just frustrating to me that this forage campaign has been very successful and it's convinced the Council to be concerned with how much fish we leave in the water rather than how much is harvested for food and that's a big problem... We want to make sure that the Council knows that the industry is putting samples aside. The Science Center for Marine Fisheries researchers were up here this year looking at what little fish we did take. Wayne's been asking people at the plant to set that aside. We will continue to do that. We'll sample it as much as the biologists can handle the samples. The woman who was working on the study in Mississippi was active in the international otolith exchange, ageing these fish. We want to make sure these things continue. We'll continue to support that as a company and as an industry.

Julia Beaty: That's basically the only data that we have on age and maturity and things like that for this part of the world. So that's great that you're continuing to do that.

William Bright: I pretty much second what Jeff said. We're definitely in need of a management plan for these fish. Our only hope going forward is using real science. My main concern, you talk about emerging fisheries management- even this forage fish amendment, everybody acted like they did so good. But you just took 70 species off the table. I spent a lot of time and work - species that are feeding people. Everybody needs to eat. Every one of these species can probably give up a percentage to the ultimate predator - us. When everyone said this forage fish was successful, the only thing it was successful at was to pass laws so people aren't going to eat. That's the way I look at it. I'm in the food business. I feed people. So I'm just a little concerned about why an emerging fishery would be bad to start with. At the Council meeting, everyone was concerned that it's an emerging fishery. What's wrong with the environment's changing - we all know the environment is changing. We could sit here and argue whether it's fossil fuel related or not, but it's changing. It's a fact. As these species become more available to us - I just can't believe the humanitarian side. We could draw a line in the sand and say everything over there has to stay over there. We have our piece of the pie. Everybody else can starve. It's tough for me to swallow that.

After the hearing, one attendee suggested that limited access might be worth considering, especially as herring quotas have been cut back. Only a few vessels harvest notable amounts of chub mackerel currently, but that could change. If the chub mackerel fishery were limited to the existing directed Illex permit holders, that could be sufficient.

Comments:

Pam Lyons Gromen: My understanding of specifications is the Monitoring Committee recommends the ACT. But if you move forward with just the one ACL and the one ACT, do the Monitoring Committee and the Council have the ability in specifications to create a separate commercial and recreational ACT in that process? Or would that have to be a full amendment process? The reason I'm asking is there seemed to be a lot of uncertainty about what's happening in the recreational sector and you are going to distribute those new ID cards. So it seems like there are opportunities to get more accurate information and having some kind of frame for that information to build into would be more helpful than having to do a full amendment process. We're not doing anything frameworkable through this process so it seems like something like that would require a full amendment because of the allocation implications.

Jeff Kaelin: I just want to thank Julia for the cooperation and communication as this thing has evolved. I don't know how many years it's been. I think the condition that the proposed amendment is in is very good. We just appreciate the fact that we're getting close to managing a stock. We didn't use to have to report, well we reported it. But it wasn't managed. This is the right thing to do. Julia's done a great job balancing the issues.

Pam Lyons Gromen: Wild Oceans will also be sending in written comments. I'll save those more detailed comments for the letter. I applauded the Council's decision and supported it in the Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment that chub mackerel didn't really qualify as an ecosystem component species and it did in fact meet criteria for conservation and management. Just going through the first few - It's an important component of the marine environment. We know it's an important part of the food web. We're still investigating its connection to HMS. But it clearly is an important energy conduit by feeding on small invertebrates and becoming prey for open ocean predators. It's certainly caught by the fishery. It's targeted by the fishery. It's a developing fishery and we'd like it to develop sustainably. That's a need that was identified in the Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment. The Council recognized the need to hold the footprint, to prevent the expansion of existing fisheries or the development of new fisheries until we have that new info to guide sustainability. I think this amendment, which I'm hopeful will turn into a new management plan for chub mackerel, offers a wonderful opportunity to explore what a sustainable forage fish fishery looks like. I'm excited for the data that we might be collecting under some of these alternatives here. And again, just thank the Council for moving forward in this direction, which I believe is the right direction to go - to bring them into management.

RE: Comments on the Public Hearing Document for the Chub Mackerel Amendment to the Atlantic Mackerel, Squids, and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan

Dear Chairman Luisi, Executive Director Moore, and Committee Chairman Hughes:

We are writing on behalf of The Pew Charitable Trusts (Pew) to provide comments on the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council’s (Council) Public Hearing Document for the Chub Mackerel Amendment to the Atlantic Mackerel, Squids, and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan (MSB FMP). Chub mackerel are vital prey for many important highly migratory species including tuna, marlin, and swordfish, and are prey for marine mammals and sharks.¹ We applaud the Council for initiating full federal conservation and management of this key forage species. Appropriate catch limits are needed for what is already a large-scale fishery that account not only for the long-term health of the chub mackerel population, but also its many dependent predators. As vital members of the ecosystem chub mackerel are prey for important predators that drive recreational and commercial fisheries that bring in billions of dollars to Atlantic coast communities.² When determining how to best manage the chub mackerel fishery, management from the outset must consider the biological, ecological, and direct and indirect economic values of chub mackerel.

Specifically, we recommend:

- 1) The acceptable biological catch (ABC) for chub mackerel must not exceed the 2,300 metric tons (mt) recommended by the SSC; and,
- 2) The Council should set an annual catch limit (ACL) for chub mackerel based on Alternative 3.B: Optimum Yield (OY) is less than ABC to account for its forage values and uncertainty.

(In 2016, commercial and recreational saltwater fishing in the United States generated more than $212 billion in sales and contributed $100 billion to the country’s gross domestic product. Nationally, 9.8 million saltwater anglers took recreational fishing trips in 2016 — a 9 percent increase in anglers from 2015. Saltwater recreational fishing supported 472,000 jobs, generated $68 billion in sales impacts across the economy, and contributed $39 billion to the GDP. The commercial fishing and seafood industry — harvesters, processors, dealers, wholesalers, and retailers — supported 1.2 million jobs in 2016, generating $144 billion in sales impacts and adding $61 billion to the GDP.)

1) The ABC for chub mackerel must not exceed the 2,300 mt recommended by the SSC

Under the MSA, the Council cannot set a catch limit higher than the SSC's recommended ABC³ of 2,300 mt for chub mackerel, and based on the law, regulations, and the Council's own policies it should set ACLs at a lower level that represents Optimum Yield (see 2 below). The directed fishery for chub mackerel was discovered by managers during the development of the Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment (UFOA), in which the Council committed to taking a proactive approach to conserving unmanaged forage species and the ecosystem services they provide. The intent of the UFOA is to prohibit fisheries on forage species "until the Council has adequate opportunity to assess the scientific information relating to any new or expanded directed fisheries and consider potential impacts to existing fisheries, fishing communities, and the marine ecosystem."⁴ At that time a large-scale chub mackerel fishery was already established, but the Council applied a similar forward-thinking approach.

We continue to commend the Council and its NOAA Fisheries representatives for, in the UFOA and now again, initiating full conservation and management under the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (MSA) in the MSB FMP. Chub mackerel are vital to sustaining the productivity and structure of the marine ecosystem and support an array of ecologically and economically important species. The Council should take this precautionary approach to management until sufficient scientific information is available to provide a comprehensive understanding of the role chub mackerel play in the ecosystem, including their interaction with predators and the marine environment. The ABCs and OYs that become the basis for catch limits must maintain a healthy and abundant population of chub mackerel to support marine ecosystems and the coastal economies that depend on their wellbeing.

2) The Council should set an annual catch limit (ACL) for chub mackerel based on Alternative 3.B: Optimum Yield (OY) is less than ABC to account for its forage values and uncertainty

The Council should require that OY be set less than the ABC for all forage fisheries including chub mackerel. The MSA, National Standard 1, and a growing body of scientific literature urge fisheries managers to take a precautionary approach to managing forage species like chub mackerel, in part by setting OY lower than ABC.

The MSA defines "optimum" with respect to yield from a fishery as "the amount of fish which will provide the greatest overall benefit to the Nation, particularly with respect to food production and recreational opportunities, and taking into account the protection of marine ecosystems."⁵ Chub mackerel and other forage species provide benefits to the nation that go beyond the species' individual value at market. When determining "the greatest overall benefit to the Nation" the National Standard 1 guidelines (NS1) give guidance stating that the Council should consider the benefits of recreational fishing opportunities and the contribution of recreational fishing to the national, regional, and local economies and food supplies.⁶ It also says that the Council should consider the benefits of food production derived from providing seafood to consumers; maintaining an economically viable fishery together with its attendant contributions to the national, regional, and local economies.⁷ This applies to both the chub mackerel fishery and fisheries for predators of chub mackerel like the tuna and marlin fisheries. Abundant forage species, including chub mackerel, provide ecosystem stability and trophic connectivity.

⁷ 50 CFR 600.310 (e)(3)(iii)(A)(1).

They are important forage for predator species that also contribute to ecosystem stability and provide billions of dollars in economic benefit to coastal communities through recreational and commercial fishing opportunities and jobs.⁸

National Standard 1 also states that when determining the optimal yield of a fishery, the greatest overall benefits to the Nation include protection of marine ecosystems and maintaining adequate forage for all components of the ecosystem.⁹ The Council's Ecosystem Approaches to Fisheries Management (EAFM) Guidance Document offers excellent direction on how to ensure adequate forage for predators and protect ecosystem stability when determining optimum yield of a forage fishery. The EAFM Guidance Document states that "[o]ptimal management of forage fish ultimately depend on the trade-off between their indirect in situ value [as forage for highly prized gamefish like tuna and marlin] versus the direct harvest market value."¹⁰ In evaluating possible tradeoffs, the Council must consider the value of chub mackerel as forage for ecologically and economically important predators and their contribution to maintaining trophic balance in the marine ecosystem in addition to their value at market. Assessing these tradeoffs will guide the Council in determining just how far below the ABC OY should be set.

The size of the chub mackerel population in the western Atlantic Ocean is unknown and there is very limited scientific information about its role as prey to the region's many predators.¹¹ Data is so limited that the Council's SSC and the Chub Mackerel Fishery Management Action Team (FMAT) determined that even stock assessment methods designed for data poor stocks would not be appropriate for this species at this time, and recommended that the Council collect and assimilate more data before funding a stock assessment.¹² We praise the SSC, the FMAT, and the Council for their commitment to improving the science on chub mackerel. The FMAT recommendations for data needs and strategies for data collection are comprehensive and we encourage the Council to use these recommendations as a roadmap to ascertain the data necessary for comprehensive management of chub mackerel.¹³ We are pleased that the Council has already committed to an HMS study to determine the contribution of chub mackerel to the diets of important regional predators including white and blue marlins and bigeye and yellowfin tunas.¹⁴ When assessing predator needs it is essential that the Council ascertain when and where predation interactions happen to ensure that they have a comprehensive and accurate picture of the importance of chub mackerel as forage throughout the year and across its entire range from Maine to Texas.

The FMAT advised that fishery dependent and independent data should help answer fundamental stock structure questions including abundance, age, length, weight, growth, maturity, recruitment, migratory patterns, and changes in the range of the stock. It is important to compile information about the chub mackerel fishery as well including tow-by-tow information on fishing location, gear, catch, landings, and when possible temperature, depth, and tow speed.¹⁵ Catch per unit effort should also be determined.¹⁶ The FMAT suggested that distribution of chub mackerel is likely already shifting and will continue to change due to warming ocean temperatures,¹⁷ and that a better understanding of how chub mackerel abundance and availability are influenced by climate could help inform discussions of management measures.¹⁸ Finally, information on essential fish habitat (EFH) for chub mackerel is limited and should be augmented to accurately determine EFH for all life stages as required by the MSA. Ideally the data guiding EFH for chub mackerel would include spawning times and locations, egg and juvenile habitat, habitat-related densities, growth, reproduction, and survival rates within habitats, production rates by habitat, and vulnerabilities to climate change.¹⁹ Until there is sufficient information to enable the SSC and Council to understand ecological and economics tradeoffs, catch limits should not increase and must remain at OY less than ABC.

In other parts of the world, Atlantic chub mackerel and their cousin, Pacific chub mackerel, together comprise one of the largest fisheries in the world²⁰ For example, in Japan alone, the total allowable catch (TAC) of mackerel species in 2014 was 818,280 mt.²¹ In the South China Sea in 2013, Chinese and Japanese catch of Pacific chub mackerel was 254,000 mt.²² These countries are also significant importers of mackerel and the substantial market demand in Japan,²³ China,²⁴ Korea,²⁵ and African countries²⁶ could drive pressure to increase catch here in the U.S. If the Council and NOAA Fisheries decide in the future to allow catch limit increases based on SSC advice and the best available ecosystem science and economics, they must continue to be based on OY less than ABC to safeguard chub mackerel's broader role and values as forage and to account for risk and uncertainty.

We commend the Council for its commitment to establish full federal conservation and management under the MSA for the existing chub mackerel fishery. Pew supports the Council's leadership in ecosystem-based fisheries management and requests that it take this opportunity to apply the recommendations of its EAFM Guidance Document to guide the management of chub mackerel and maintain all its values. The Council must protect ecosystem structure and function, including the predators and fisheries that depend on chub mackerel. As an essential part of the FMP, we also urge managers to collect the necessary information to manage this species by protecting its role as forage from the outset. We thank the Council for the opportunity to comment and we look forward to contributing further to the Council's proactive and precautionary management of this important forage species.

RE: Chub Mackerel Amendment

Dear Dr. Moore:

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on this important issue. I support the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council managing Atlantic chub mackerel as a stock in the Atlantic Mackerel, Squids, and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan (MSB FMP) and encourage the Council to adhere to the science and statistical committee's (SSC's) recommended acceptable biological catch (ABC) of 2,300 metric tons (5.07 million pounds) for 2021-2023. Furthermore, until sufficient scientific information is available to provide a comprehensive understanding of the role of chub mackerel in the ecosystem and allow for the necessary management adjustments to consider the needs of predators, I do not support increasing catch limits on chub mackerel.

When the Council passed the Unmanaged Forage Amendment, it committed to taking a proactive approach to conserving unmanaged forage species and the ecosystem services they provide. It's in that spirit that I commend the Council on this effort to formally manage chub mackerel under the MSB FMP. As forage, chub mackerel are vital to supporting an array of ecologically and economically important species, including highly migratory species such as tunas, billfish, marlin, and striped bass, as well as other species like monkfish, summer flounder, and a variety of marine mammals and sharks.

While the Council must follow the SSC's recommended ABC of 2,300 metric tons for upcoming fishing years, it's the responsibility of managers to consider the ecosystem role of chub mackerel, and the economic, social, and ecosystem impacts when setting catch limits. For forage species like chub mackerel, the Council can in fact set catch limits less than the recommended ABC. By keeping more fish in the water, managers can invest in the future of the resource as well as other fisheries that depend on healthy and abundant populations of chub mackerel. This precautionary approach to management is supported by the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act and the National Standard guidelines, where attention should be given to managing forage stocks for higher biomass to enhance and protect the marine ecosystem.

Lastly, the Council should adhere to its own policy and recommendations for managers when setting catch limits for forage species like chub mackerel—as outlined in the Council’s Ecosystem Approach to Fisheries Management Guidance Document, which details the importance of supporting an adequate forage base to ensure ecosystem health, and gives clear guidance on how to set catch limits that consider a species’ role as forage.

Thank you again for this opportunity to comment, as well as to Council and staff for embarking on this long-term commitment to managing chub mackerel for its role as forage under the MSB FMP to the benefit of its many predators, fishing and coastal communities, and the marine ecosystem underlying many of the public resources on which we all depend.

Dear Dr. Moore,

On behalf of Drop Back Charters and the fishermen of non-profit South Atlantic Fishing Environmentalists (S.A.F.E.), I provide these comments on the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council Chub Mackerel Amendment Public Hearing Document. We support 1) adding chub mackerel to the Atlantic Mackerel, Squid and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan, 2) adoption of the science committee's Acceptable Biological Catch of 2,300 mt for 2021-2023 and 3) Alternative Set 3.B: Alternative Set 3.B: OY is less than ABC.

Chub mackerel are found throughout the South Atlantic, Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean. They are uncommon in Florida Keys fisheries, but they are nonetheless an important forage for species we target. We know from our struggles with ballyhoo harvest in the Keys causing localized depletion that forage fish stocks play an extremely large role in accelerating catches and jeopardizing fisheries that depend on forage fish predators. Scientists report that unmanaged forage fishing, such as in the chub fishery, is particularly dangerous as it has been shown amplify the magnitude and frequency of forage fish stock collapses.

We urge the Council to manage chub based on the science committee's recommendations and with an eye towards ecosystem health as provided for in Alternative Set 3.B. Chub is a very data limited fishery and, as such, necessitates this careful, science-driven approach if we are to keep the stock and the commercial and recreational fisheries that depend on it healthy.

Thank you for your time and consideration of our comments.

Subject: Chub Mackerel Comments
Date: Wednesday, January 16, 2019 2:45:23 PM

Ms. Beaty,

Good afternoon,

I am writing to provide public comment on chub mackerel on behalf of the Angler Action Foundation, which is dedicated to conserving our fish stocks, their habitats, and sensible angler access.

AAF supports the continued protection of chub mackerel through the following measures:

1. Managing chub mackerel as a "stock in the fishery" of the Atlantic mackerel/squid/butterfish FMP;
2. Adopt the Council's SSC recommended ABC of 2,300 metric tons for 2021-2023; and
3. Setting Optimal Yield in accordance with provided option 3B (Less than ABC).

We are hopeful that moving chub mackerel into such a management plan would allow us to ensure the protection of this data-poor species until such time that we can define and implement a more ecosystem-comprehensive management plan for as many species as possible, including chub mackerel which are forage for a variety of pelagic species.

Further, while chub mackerel are a data-poor species, the dramatic spike of landings in the past six years (2013 in particular) suggests that fishing technology has evolved enough to catch this species in mass quantity. Should a market drive directed efforts, leaving this species without any protection would leave them unnecessarily at risk for overfishing. The suggested limits are generous enough that the current harvest practices should not be disrupted, therefore not creating a new hardship on the commercial fishing fleet(s).

Thank you very much for the opportunity to provide comment on this issue. We look forward to following the progress of protecting our fisheries and their forage species in the greater Atlantic region in the months and years to come.

Re: Chub Mackerel (Scomber colias) Amendment

Dear Dr. Moore:

On behalf of the 150 employees of our family-owned seafood company and the independent fishermen supplying our freezing and processing facility in Cape May, New Jersey, thank you for the opportunity to comment on the public hearing document (PHD) proposing a chub mackerel fishery management plan, as part of the suite of species now managed under the umbrella of the Council's MSB plan.

We support moving ahead with managing chub mackerel and we support the proposed goals and objectives to manage this stock sustainably into the future and create fishing opportunities when biologically appropriate. We believe, however, that these could be expanded to focus on developing a better understanding of the extent of this stock outside of US waters, particularly as part of estimating the potential of a fishery on what may be an emerging species from the south.

As a company that has invested in vessels and processing capacity in the squid fisheries in this region for many years, we specifically appreciate the intent of Goal 2, which says that there is an opportunity to fish for chub mackerel, with availability possibly resulting from climate change. The intent to minimize additional restrictions in the Illex fishery is also appreciated.

Our preferred alternatives follow in the order presented in the PHD.

Management

Alternative 2: Manage chub mackerel as a stock in the MSB FMP; as the Council does today with the two squid species, butterfish and Atlantic mackerel stocks.

Specifications

2.A.ii: The MSB process would be followed for managing this stock.

LUND'S FISHERIES

Wild caught product of USA

Managing the Needs of our Customers Through our Commitment to Sustainable Fisheries

Management Unit

2.B.ii: Maine through North Carolina. We believe Administrator Pentony's May 3, 2018 letter is helpful relative to NS 3 guidance that the management unit is not required to cover the area of the entire biological stock. We hope that the Council continues to investigate, with the SSC, what the entire biological stock area actually is, as it is our understanding that this stock may range south through Central and South America.

Separation of Commercial and Recreational Catch Limits

2.C.i: No separation of commercial and recreational catch limits although reporting in all commercial and recreational sectors should be required by the Council, to successfully manage the potential of this emerging fishery.

Accountability Measures

2.D.i.a.: Closure when 100% of the quota is landed;

2.D.ii.d: Use a 40,000 pound trip limit after the closure. A liberal trip limit can make a chub catch valuable to a vessel when Illex may not be present. Maximizing a conservative quota when the fish may be present is more valuable, even in terms of data potential from the catches, than discarding those fish if encountered.

Permitting Requirements

2.E.i.c: Require any GARFO commercial mackerel, squid, butterfish permit.

2.E.ii.b.: Require any GARFO party/charter permit.

Catch and Landing Limits

3.A.: OY = ABC; The Council should use the SSC ABC of 2,300 mt/5.07 million pounds although we do not understand why an in-season adjustment for the 2019 fishery could not be made to allow this very conservative, although appreciated, quota during this summer's fishery. The SSC has used its expert judgement in establishing this ABC, though the 2023 fishing year. If the Illex do not return next summer, the additional fish will be valuable to those few squid fishermen able to take them.

Measures Considered and Set Aside

We believe the list of measures not under consideration represents a fair, balanced and science-based approach to managing this fishery, at this time, which we appreciate.

With best regards,

Wayne Reichle

RE: Chub Mackerel Amendment

Dear Dr. Moore,

As an angler-supported conservation group that works to advance ecosystem approaches to fisheries management, Wild Oceans strongly supports managing Atlantic chub mackerel as a “stock in the fishery “ by fully incorporating the species into the existing Atlantic Mackerel, Squid, and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan (MSB FMP). Chub mackerel will be the first forage species added to the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council’s list of managed species since the finalization of the Ecosystem Approach to Fisheries Management (EAFM) Guidance Document. How the Council proceeds with the Chub Mackerel Amendment (Amendment) is therefore critical to advancing, and demonstrating commitment to, Council EAFM policies, notably the Council’s policy “to support the maintenance of an adequate forage base in the Mid-Atlantic to ensure ecosystem productivity, structure and function and to support sustainable fishing communities.” With this in mind, we are pleased to provide the following recommendations for inclusion in the Amendment.

Goals and Objectives

The draft list of goals and objectives is comprehensive and appropriate for the role chub mackerel play in the ecosystem as prey for open ocean predators. Objective 1.1 (prevent overfishing and achieve and maintain sustainable biomass levels that achieve optimum yield in the fisheries and meet the needs of chub mackerel predators) warrants consideration as the primary plan objective and should serve as an overarching objective for the alternatives selected.

Though this action is separate from the completed Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment, it nonetheless originated from the Council’s identified need “to prohibit the development of new and expansion of existing directed commercial fisheries on unmanaged forage species in Mid-Atlantic Federal waters until the Council has had an adequate opportunity to assess the scientific information relating to any new or expanded directed fisheries and consider potential impacts to existing fisheries, fishing communities, and the marine ecosystem.”¹

As both the Council’s Scientific and Statistical Committee (SSC) and Chub Mackerel Amendment Fishery Management Action Team (FMAT) have characterized Atlantic chub mackerel as “data poor”², and the SSC has concluded that “insufficient information exists to assess the status and trends of the Chub Mackerel stock in the northwest Atlantic region,”³ preventing the expansion of the fishery and implementing a robust data collection program to guide fishery development are necessary to achieving the goal of a sustainable chub mackerel stock.

Alternatives to Manage Chub Mackerel as a Stock in the Fishery

Alternative Set 2:

We reiterate our strong support for managing chub mackerel as a stock in the MSB FMP (Alternative 2). During the development of the Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment, we concurred with the Greater Atlantic Regional Fisheries Office’s (GARFO) assessment that although chub mackerel is an unmanaged forage species, it does not qualify as an ecosystem component species and warrants designation as a stock in the fishery.⁴ A number of the ten factors listed under the general Magnuson Act provisions⁵ that councils should consider when determining whether a stock is in need of conservation and management are applicable to chub mackerel. Notably, the stock is an important component of the marine environment; is targeted and caught by the fishery; is important to commercial and recreational users; is currently unmanaged by any state or federal programs; and as a developing fishery, can benefit from orderly growth fostered by a fishery management plan.

To implement Alternative 2, we support the following:

- As required by the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (Magnuson Act), establish a process for defining status determination criteria, maximum sustainable yield, optimum yield, acceptable biological catch, and annual catch limits, and designate essential fish habitat for Atlantic chub mackerel. We note that the National Standard 1 Guidelines provide the regional councils with ample latitude to ² Chub Mackerel Amendment Public Hearing Document, p. 9.

³ Report of the July 2018 SSC Meeting, 25 July 2018.

recommend alternative methods for specifying stock determination criteria in data poor circumstances.⁶

- Apply the current specifications procedures used for Atlantic mackerel, longfin squid, shortfin squid and butterfish to Atlantic chub mackerel (Alternative 2.A.II). MSB specifications procedures have proven effective for offering stakeholder input opportunities. As part of this alternative, the MSB Advisory Panel should be asked to provide information about the chub mackerel fishery in the annual Fishery Performance Report.
- Define the Atlantic chub mackerel management unit as U.S. waters from Maine to the East Coast of Florida (Alternative 2.B.I). This management unit alternative aligns with the SSC's Acceptable Biological Catch (ABC) recommendation and gives the Council greater authority to regulate and conserve Atlantic chub mackerel throughout its range, consistent with an ecosystem-based approach.
- Divide the chub mackerel Annual Catch Limit (ACL) into commercial and recreational Annual Catch Targets (ACTs) (Alternative 2.C.II). The Council is clear in the Public Hearing Document (p. 14) that "recreational chub mackerel data should be considered uncertain and imprecise." For this reason, we believe it is premature to consider the recreational component of the fishery insignificant and eliminate the ability to use separate commercial and recreational allocations. Anglers came forward during the hearings for the Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment to testify about a live bait fishery around the canyons that has developed in recent years.⁷ As the Council works with NOAA Fisheries to improve upon recreational catch data (e.g., a small scombrid ID guide was recently developed for distribution to party and charter boats in the region, and the MRIP training program recently added chub mackerel to its list of core species), it would be prudent to maintain the ability for the Monitoring Committee to recommend both recreational and commercial ACTs if needed.
- Close the fishery when 95% of the commercial quota is landed (Alternative 2.D.I.B), and allow possession of 10,000 lbs. of mackerel after the fishery closes (Alternative 2.D.II.C). Considering the overall ABC and the high volume nature of the fishery, we believe these two alternatives would be effective in preventing ACL overages by discouraging directed fishing after the fishery closes. The 10,000-lb possession limit accommodates 99% of documented trips by vessels that are not part of the directed fishing fleet. Most important is that the fishery closure procedures be compatible with the permitting and catch monitoring and reporting systems. For example, a fishery with daily electronic catch reporting could warrant a later closure than a fishery regulated through weekly reporting.

⁷ Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment Public Hearing Summary and Comments, p. 11 of 285 in the PDF.

- Prevent the expansion of the fishery until there is adequate information to consider the potential impacts of fishery growth on existing fisheries, fishing communities, and the marine ecosystem. This action is essential to meeting the Amendment goal of maintaining a sustainable chub mackerel stock that satisfies the indirect and direct needs of commercial and recreational fishermen, and the needs of predators and the ecosystem as a whole. New entrants into the fishery should be discouraged by limiting federal waters directed fishing to vessels that have already invested and participated in the fishery. We recommend combining and modifying Alternative 2.E.I.C and 2.E.I.B to only allow unlimited possession by Illex permit holders and establish a limited incidental allowance for other GARFO permit holders. The incidental allowance should be set at a level consistent with historical levels of incidental catch. This modified alternative enables the collection of accurate and timely catch and spatial data, requested by the SSC, through the Illex Vessel Monitoring System (VMS) requirements.
- Require an existing federal party/charter permit through GARFO in order to retain chub mackerel (Alternative 2.E.II.B). The VTR reporting requirements that correspond with these permits will facilitate the collection of recreational data and will help improve our understanding of the recreational fishery.

Alternative Set 3:

Optimum Yield (OY) should be set less than the ABC (Alternative 3.B) to account for the economic, social, and ecological factors that are not incorporated into the SSC's ABC recommendation of 5.07 million pounds. We recommend an OY value equal to the catch limit set by the Council through the Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment, which is 2.86 million pounds or the average of the three highest annual landings on record. When approving this catch limit, the Council expressed its intent to preserve current fishing opportunities without encouraging growth, given the limited scientific information available to ensure long-term sustainability. This situation remains unchanged.

The Magnuson Act requires regional councils to include an assessment of Optimum Yield within an FMP.⁸ To date, the Mid-Atlantic Council has not provided an OY assessment for chub mackerel, listing economic, social and ecological factors that the Council considers important for determining the greatest benefit to the nation. We emphasize that the SSC was clear that its ABC recommendation does not take into account ecosystem considerations.⁹ In the case of chub mackerel, the protection of marine ecosystems and recreational opportunities provided by leaving chub mackerel in the water to fulfill its ecological role as forage must be taken into account.¹⁰

⁸ 50 CFR § 600.310 (e)(3) (iii): Assessing OY: An FMP must contain an assessment and specification of OY (MSA section 303(a)(3)). The assessment should include: a summary of information utilized in making such specification; an explanation of how the OY specification will produce the greatest benefits to the nation and prevent overfishing and rebuild overfished stocks; and a consideration of the economic, social, and ecological factors relevant to the management of a particular stock, stock complex, or fishery.

ABCs and ABC control rules do not override the requirement for an Optimum Yield specification.¹¹ As explained in the National Standard 1 Guidelines, “The determination of OY is a decisional mechanism for resolving the Magnuson-Stevens Act’s conservation and management objectives, achieving an FMP’s objectives, and balancing the various interests that comprise the greatest overall benefits to the Nation.”¹² We maintain that without an explicit OY specification, neither the OY requirements of the Magnuson Act or the objectives under Amendment Goals 1 and 2 are met. We ask the Council to include an explicit OY discussion within the Chub Mackerel Amendment, explaining how OY will be achieved through the conservation and management measures contained within the Amendment.

In closing, we extend our appreciation to the Council for promptly addressing the need to develop a management program for chub mackerel following the completion of the Unmanaged Forage Omnibus. While we are disappointed that the spatial analysis we requested during scoping was not conducted to explore the potential for the chub mackerel fishery to interact with open ocean predators as they transit the mid-Atlantic, we are encouraged by the ongoing highly migratory species diet study and hope that a spatial analysis can be completed when the diet study concludes.

Sincerely,

Pam Lyons Gromen
Executive Director

¹⁰ The benefits of recreational opportunities include “the quality of the recreational fishing experience” and “the contribution of recreational fishing to the national, regional, and local economies.” Protection of marine ecosystems includes “maintaining adequate forage for all components of the marine ecosystem.” See, 50 CFR §600.310(e)(3).

Dear Dr. Moore,

Anglers for Conservation, Inc thanks you for this opportunity to comment on the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council Chub Mackerel Amendment Public Hearing Document. We have long supported forage fish conservation and science efforts in Florida led by the Florida Forage Fish Coalition, as well as progress toward ecosystem-based management of Atlantic menhaden. We support similar action by the Council for chub mackerel. Specifically, we ask the Council add chub mackerel to the Atlantic Mackerel, Squid and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan, adopt the science committee's Acceptable Biological Catch of 2,300 mt for 2021-2023 and Alternative Set 3.B: OY is less than ABC.

AFC recognizes forage fish such as chub because they serve a vital role as prey for commercially and recreationally valuable predator species that help make Florida the Fishing Capital of the World. We also recognize that their populations are highly influenced by environmental conditions and that directed fishing pressure can increase the severity and duration of population crashes. This fact is particularly salient in the case of data-limited fisheries such as chub. With data limited fisheries, especially those on forage, precautionary management is key.

We urge the Council to manage chub based on the science committee's recommendations and with an eye towards ecosystem health as provided for in Alternative Set 3.B. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mike Conneen

Dr. Chris Moore, Executive Director
Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council
800 North State Street, Suite 201
Dover, DE 19901
[sent via email]

Dear Dr. Moore,

On behalf of The Nature Conservancy, I am writing to express our support for the addition of Atlantic chub mackerel as a “stock in the fishery” to the Mackerel, Squid, Butterfish (MSB) Fishery Management Plan.

The Nature Conservancy’s marine conservation work prioritizes sustainable seafood, strong coastal communities and a healthy ocean. We are committed to helping create and maintain the conditions necessary for healthy and resilient marine and estuarine food webs which benefit nature and people. We support the draft goals and objectives for this amendment that (1) Maintain a chub mackerel stock that fulfills its role in the ecosystem; (2) Optimize economic and social benefits and balance priorities of different user groups; and (3) Support science, monitoring, and data collection to enhance management.

Specifically, we support:

Management

Alt 2 - Manage the chub mackerel as a stock in the MSB FMP.

Specifications:

2.A.ii – Setting specifications through the MSB specifications process.

Commercial and Recreational Catch Limits:

2.C.i – No separation of commercial and recreational catch limits at this time.

Accountability measures:

2.D.I.B - Close the fishery when 95% of the commercial quota is landed.

2.D.II.C - Allow possession of 10,000 lbs of chub mackerel after the fishery closes.

The measure will discourage directed fishing after the fishery closes and accommodate incidental harvest.

Permitting requirements:

Modify option 2.E.i.c – Allow a small incidental harvest of chub mackerel for GARFO mackerel, squid, butterfish permit holders. For directed harvest, add a chub mackerel endorsement to a GARFO mackerel, squid, butterfish permit only for those who have reported directed harvest (above incidental harvest level) landings of chub mackerel in at least one of the last 5 years.

2.E.ii.b – Require a GARFO party/charter permit.

Catch and landings limits:

3.A - Adopt the ABC recommended by the SSC and set OY = ABC (i.e. 2,300mt or 5.07 million lbs). This level of catch is not the result of an extensive amount of fishing effort but rather, as the catch data shows, the result of a small number of vessels targeting chub mackerel when it is available. We support the idea of switching species based on availability – fisheries having the ability to target a particularly abundant species, especially if doing so may alleviate pressure on a species that is less abundant that year. We do not support expansion of this fishery without adequate data to understand ecosystem impacts and to support catch limits that reflect chub mackerel’s role as forage in the ecosystem. We support the SSC’s request for data collection to support their ABC recommendation, “The SSC is requesting specific data collection in association with this ABC, and may revert to a lower value if data cannot be collected to assess the risk associated with the higher ABC.” Data to be collected “should include catch and effort information in the directed Chub Mackerel fishery, age and length composition in the catch...and spatial distribution of catch” (SSC memo July 2018). We suggest data on pelagic habitat characteristics (i.e. water temperature, salinity, depth) be collected as well. If at some point in the future data demonstrates ecosystem capacity for fishery expansion, we would recommend the Council set OY less than ABC to account for ecological factors.

We appreciate the opportunity to share our comments on this important amendment. We look forward to supporting the development of management for the chub mackerel fishery. Please contact me at kate.wilke@tnc.org or (434) 942-7652 with any questions or ideas for how we might assist.

Julia Beaty
Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council
800 North State Street, Suite 201
Dover, Delaware 19901

Dear Ms. Beaty:

The American Sportfishing Association (ASA) appreciates the opportunity to provide comments to the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council (MAFMC) regarding the Chub Mackerel Amendment.

ASA is the nation's recreational fishing trade association and represents sportfishing manufacturers, retailers, wholesalers, and angler advocacy groups, as well as the interests of America's 49 million recreational anglers. ASA also safeguards and promotes the social, economic, and conservation values of sportfishing in America, which result in a $125 billion per year impact on the nation's economy.

Chub mackerel are part of the forage base for many large pelagic predators (e.g., white and blue marlins, bigeye and yellowfin tunas) throughout the Mid-Atlantic Canyons. Although data are currently limited, the importance of chub mackerel to these recreationally targeted species is understood by both the private and charter boat angling community who fish the region. Therefore, we appreciate the MAFMC for proactively funding a study to assess the contribution of chub mackerel to the diets of these recreationally important predatory fish.

Additionally, in 2016, the Council adopted a policy of supporting the "maintenance of an adequate forage base in the mid-Atlantic to ensure ecosystem productivity, structure and function, and to support sustainable fishing communities" (MAFMC 2016). In pursuit of this policy, we support adding chub mackerel as a stock in the Squid, Mackerel, Butterfish Fishery Management Plan (FMP) to continue similar protections originally provided in the Unmanaged Forage Omnibus Amendment. More specifically, we recommend the following preferred management alternatives:

- Manage chub mackerel as a stock in the Squid, Mackerel, Butterfish FMP.
- Set OY less than the ABC. Setting an annual landing limit of 2.86 million pounds matches previous action and would not impact the fishery if landings were similar to recent years.
- Use the same specifications process as is currently used in the FMP.
- Establish a Maine through Florida management unit to match chub mackerel's range.
- No separation of commercial and recreational catch limits because of current data limitations.
- ACL overage payment requirements for accountability.
- No additional permits for party or charter vessels to retain chub mackerel in the management unit.

In summary, we appreciate the MAFMC taking proactive steps to ensure the forage base is protected in the Mid-Atlantic region. We support continued protection of this stock by adding it to the FMP with the management alternatives as outlined above.

Sincerely,

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council is developing an amendment to consider adding Atlantic chub mackerel (Scomber colias) as ``stock in the fishery'' in the Mackerel, Squid, and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan. Additional information is available at: <http://www.mafmc.org/actions/chub-mackerel-amendment>.

The Council will hold five public hearings on this amendment, during which Council staff will summarize the management alternatives under consideration prior to opening the hearing for public comments. The hearings schedule is as follows:

I just want to thank you for taking a proactive approach to managing and maintaining a healthy chub mackerel population. This is an important forage species for many of our pelagic fish. So, kudos to the Mid-Atlantic council for developing management plans for forage species prior to some crisis situation.

To Whom It May Concern,

I was not able to easily access the proposals so I am not commenting on specific proposals.

I am a commercial fishermen from Montauk , Ny . We have been seeing more and more Chub mackerel every year. Please keep access to this resource . We have see most of our quotas slashed to despicable levels. Now I see the council getting ahead of up and coming fisheries. Keep access to Chub mackerel. Do not destroy opportunities with unrealistic quotas.

Thanks, Charles Etzel

Re: Chub Mackerel Amendment Comments

Dear Dr. Moore:

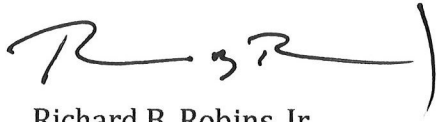

As the council continues to develop management measures for chub mackerel, I would encourage the council to focus on continuing to develop the information necessary to inform the evaluation of ecological and economic tradeoffs associated with the prospective development of this fishery. Although the HMS fisheries in the Mid-Atlantic region are managed separately by HMS, they are among the region's most significant fisheries, in terms of economic value, and their multispecies linkage should be considered carefully as chub mackerel are brought more formally into a management framework.

The ongoing diet study should provide the council with important ecological information when completed. The AP's 2018 Fishery Performance Report for chub mackerel underscores the fact that the council would benefit from having HMS fishery participants represented on the AP. Large components of the HMS fleets are disengaged from the council's management process and have not been directly engaged in the development of this amendment. I would encourage the council to address this gap in future calls for AP nominations.

While the council continues to develop scientific and advisory inputs to inform the tradeoffs associated with this multispecies fishery, I would encourage the council to maintain OY within the historical range of the fishery's landings. Maintaining OY at a level of 2.86 million pounds would maintain fishing opportunities within the fishery's recently expanded historical landings without posing additional risk to the region's extant HMS fisheries as the council continues to put together the necessary information to manage these important interactions.

I appreciate the opportunity to comment on the council's proposed actions in the management of this important species.

Sincerely,

11/9/2018	Daniel Potrepka	Silver Spring	Private Recreational Angler	Please support the Chub Mackerel amendment to add Atlantic chub mackerel (Scomber colias) as a “stock in the fishery” in the Mackerel, Squid, and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan. The amendment considers potential catch limits, accountability measures, and other conservation and management measures required for stocks in the fishery. The Chub Mackerel Amendment aims to develop alternatives for longer-term management of chub mackerel fisheries to ensure sustainability. In Fact, there needed to be enough left in the water to satisfy predator needs. A large harvest of a forage species (millions for example in the past), with no science or management in place is foolish at best. Let scientific bases for catch help keep this important fish at sustainable levels and protect the overall fishery.
12/31/2018	Chris Arfsten	Rocky Point, NY	Private Recreational Angler	Please proceed with a greater measure of caution in managing this forage species. Find out what role this fish plays in the ecosystem before allowing this substantial increase in harvest and learning later that this was the wrong decision.
1/8/2019	Mark Philippe	Burlington, CT	Private Recreational Angler	As a recreational angler, I have seen the results from over-harvesting of menhaden. A forage fish like chub mackerel is of great importance to pelagic fish. Please support placing restrictions on the commercial catch of chub mackerel so that the pelagic fish and commercial take are in balance.
1/15/2019	George Gabriel	Virginia Beach	Private Recreational Angler	As a recreational angler concerned about the sustainability of our fisheries; I endorse adding Atlantic chub mackerel (Scomber colias) to the Atlantic Mackerel, Squids, and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan (FMP). The amendment considers potential catch limits, accountability measures, and other conservation and management measures required for stocks “in the fishery.” Managing the stock of forage fish is vital to sustainability efforts. Thank you for your consideration. George Gabriel

1/15/2019	Recreational Fishing Alliance RFA	New Gretna, NJ	NGO	RFA supports maintaining the current chub mackerel specifications of a 2.86 million pound annual catch limit and a 40,000lb possession limit until the studies, funded under the 2018 request for proposals, provide the SSC and the council with information on the ecosystem level importance of this species. As duly noted by the public in 2016 leading up to the inclusion of chub mackerel in the omnibus forage fish amendment, there is a shortcoming of information on how this species is utilized by other species along the Atlantic Coast. This uncertainty prompted the Council to take action under the omnibus amendment to ensure that the commercial fishery for chub mackerel did not expand until managers had the information and confidence to do so. While RFA understands that the current specifications expire at the end of 2020, RFA cannot support moving forward with new specifications that nearly double the commercial chub harvest before the studies are concluded. RFA suggests extending the current commercial specifications through an addendum to the forage fish omnibus amendment until the studies are concluded and the council has the information necessary to move forward in a responsible manner.

Dr. Chris Moore, Executive Director
Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council
800 N. State Street, Suite 201
Dover, DE, 19901

Dear Dr. Moore:

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on this important issue. I support the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council managing Atlantic chub mackerel as a stock in the Atlantic Mackerel, Squids, and Butterfish Fishery Management Plan (MSB FMP) and encourage the Council to adhere to the science and statistical committee's (SSC's) recommended acceptable biological catch (ABC) of 2,300 metric tons (5.07 million pounds) for 2021-2023. Furthermore, until sufficient scientific information is available to provide a comprehensive understanding of the role of chub mackerel in the ecosystem and allow for the necessary management adjustments to consider the needs of predators, I do not support increasing catch limits on chub mackerel.

When the Council passed the Unmanaged Forage Amendment, it committed to taking a proactive approach to conserving unmanaged forage species and the ecosystem services they provide. It's in that spirit that I commend the Council on this effort to formally manage chub mackerel under the MSB FMP. As forage, chub mackerel are vital to supporting an array of ecologically and economically important species, including highly migratory species such as tunas, billfish, marlin, and striped bass, as well as other species like monkfish, summer flounder, and a variety of marine mammals and sharks.

While the Council must follow the SSC's recommended ABC of 2,300 metric tons for upcoming fishing years, it's the responsibility of managers to consider the ecosystem role of chub mackerel, and the economic, social, and ecosystem impacts when setting catch limits. For forage species like chub mackerel, the Council can in fact set catch limits less than the recommended ABC. By keeping more fish in the water, managers can invest in the future of the resource as well as other fisheries that depend on healthy and abundant populations of chub mackerel. This precautionary approach to management is supported by the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act and the National Standard guidelines, where attention should be given to managing forage stocks for higher biomass to enhance and protect the marine ecosystem.

Lastly, the Council should adhere to its own policy and recommendations for managers when setting catch limits for forage species like chub mackerel—as outlined in the Council’s Ecosystem Approach to Fisheries Management Guidance Document, which details the importance of supporting an adequate forage base to ensure ecosystem health, and gives clear guidance on how to set catch limits that consider a species’ role as forage.

Thank you again for this opportunity to comment, as well as to Council and staff for embarking on this long-term commitment to managing chub mackerel for its role as forage under the MSB FMP to the benefit of its many predators, fishing and coastal communities, and the marine ecosystem underlying many of the public resources on which we all depend.

Sincerely,
14,957 members of the public

Jay	Roth	Mounds View	MN	Chub mackerel need to be managed as a part of the oceans ecosystem.
Maureen	Murphy	Forest Hills	NY	Chub mackerel need to be protected. They are forage fish which serve an important role in the Mid-Atlantic. Ecosystem-based catch limits for chub mackerel are necessary. PLEASE- DO THE RIGHT THING.
Cheryl	Currier	Seminole	FL	Chub mackerel play a vital role as a forage species. Please manage their catch limit to maintain a healthy marine ecosystem.
Carol	Fletcher	Ann Arbor	MI	Chub mackerel provide essential food for larger fish upon which humans depend for food. Their population must be maintained.
Carol	Gray	Bloomington	IN	Chub mackerel serve a very important ecosystem role in the Mid-Atlantic. They are vital to supporting offshore populations of several different important fish species, plus a variety of marine mammals & sharks. Mid-Atlantic managers must ensure that enough chub mackerel are left in the ocean so that these predators have enough to eat in order to sustain their own populations.
Tom	Sunlake	Bloomington	IN	Chub mackerel serve a very important ecosystem role in the Mid-Atlantic. aaron	mcgee	Madison	WI	Please consider how healthy populations of one species affects the whole system.
				Ecosystem health is the most important thing to protect. If one species is in decline, the domino effect goes into play & other species suffer & decline. We must limit catches of important fish like the chub mackerel, & use science-based research to determine safe limits.
Emma	Shook	University Heights	OH

Larry	Kimball	Cotopaxi	CO	Ecosystem interactions must be considered when setting catch limits....sustainability must be the goal.
susan	rudnicki	Manhattan Beach	CA	Ecosystem sustainability begins with humans recognizing & acting on the knowledge we have. Forage fish, such as chub mackerel, MUST be protected to prevent disintegration of the food chain in marine ecosystems. The planet is rapidly being depleted beyond recovery by the greed of Homo sapiens.
Vonda	Vandaveer	Bellevue	WA	Ecosystem-based catch limits are critical to our survival. You have the opportunity to get it right from the beginning.
Kenneth	Rosenblad	Brooklyn	NY	Ecosystem-based catch limits are crucial to maintain healthy offshore numbers of many species of fish - we need them!
Querido	Galdo	Oakland	CA	Ecosystem-based fisheries management is the only truly effective way to maintain the ecosystems that produce the fisheries in the first place. Everything else is a bandaid that threatens the long-term survival of the system & all the species in it.

Kathleen	Vandiver	Lexington	MA	I certainly support management that takes into account a broad ecological population approach to oceans!
Kris	York	Medford	OR	I am a former Fish & Game researcher & Game warden. I am very concerned about lack of food for our marine species.
Mel Richard	Kahrs	Landrum	SC	I am a strong believer in conservation of all out natural resources. It is essential that we protest chub mackerel! Without them, other species will no survive!!!
Cheryl	Mitchell	Spokane	WA	I am an attorney in Washington State & I am a former chairperson of the Washington State Bar Association's Animal Law Section. My comments are my own & do not represent the views of either the Bar Association or the Animal Law Section. We are destroying the planet, one step at a time. Big business cares only about making as much money as possible, as quickly as possible. Chub mackerel must be protected immediately. Those who are in charge do not appear to realize that the ecosystem is dependent upon a complex system. Destroying one part, or several parts of the system can destroy the entire system.
David	Davidson	Shavano Park, TX 78231	TX	I am concerned about all ecosystems because there are too many people using the earths natural resources, which includes fishing. The best we can do is at least set realistic fishing limits.
Cecile	Moochnek	Berkeley	CA	i am concerned about our oceans
Reverend Nathan	Scholar Jimenez National Congressional	Portland	OR	I am deeply concerned about the overfishing of the oceans, as a hobby fisherman this is profoundly disconcerting to me. I have seen over the years how the lack of proper fisheries management has led to a decrease of fishing limit amounts rather than a increase in limits because of healthy fish management. We need a profoundly new approach to fish management so that there is no overfishing of the oceans but that the fish population can grow in a healthy way.

Aa	Lloyd	Asheville	NC	I am extremely concerned about the continuing degradation of our planet & its natural resources including wildlife on land & in the sea. The ecological balance of marine life must be sustained.
Pamela	Alderman	Vero Beach	FL	I am the research librarian for Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institute & everyday we learn more about the dwindling fish populations. Please help long term sustainability with ecosystem-based catch limits.
Bp. Thomas H.	Hooker Jr.	Garland	TX	I am urging the Mid-Atlantic fisheries Management Council to protect chub mackerel.
Martin	Iseri	Fair Oaks	CA	I am worried any loss in the food chain will ultimately destroy the system.
Alan	Kirk	Corvallis	OR	I am writing to urge you to seriously consider the overall ecosystem in setting catch limits for chub mackerel.
Laurel	Ostrow	Saint Paul	MN	I appreciate the efforts to take care of our oceans, a vital source of life in our ecosystem.
Julia	Buck	Seattle	WA	I appreciate your growing recognition of the science behind ocean ecosystems & your proactive oversight to preserve their health.
Joan P.	Costelow	Lebanon	OR	I ask for your thoughtful consideration of setting chub mackerel catch limits to achieve fair handling of all ocean life in the Mid-Atlantic.
Renee	Estelle	Westminster	CO	I believe it is important to harvest fish in a sustainable manner, so that future generations may also enjoy them, & this policy would help maintain sustainability.
ron	smith	Bishopville	MD	I believe it's very important to have catch limits on chub mackerel & other important forage fish,(menhaden). I applaud you on acting before a crisis rather than the usual reacting after long term damages have occurred.
Lawrence	Thompson	Livermore	CA	I believe much more needs to be done to restore fisheries around the world.

				I believe that this policy, as all fisheries policies, must be governed strictly by peer-reviewed scientific analysis & recommendations. Please ensure that politics is not allowed to influence decision making. Everyone wins if scientifically determined catch limits & fisheries management decisions are allowed to dictate actual policy. That is the way that populations increase . It is a classic example of a tide raising all boats. Letting a favored interest with a political connection to influence the policymaking will result in even this favored party suffering loss of livelihood in the end. Therefore, follow the science & protect the chub mackerel.
Bryan	Wyberg	Coon Rapids	MN
Eileen	McCorry	Pittsboro	NC	I care about the future of our fish supply.
Kathryn A	Irwin	Spring Hill	FL	I care about the ocean ecosystem!
Janine	Perlman	Alexander	AR	I comment as a wildlife biologist & concerned citizen. I have noticed that chub mackerel are by far the least expensive fish available. This is very alarming to me, because it signifies that the catch is not managed.
Mary E	Breitlow	Richmond	CA	I do hope that all of you will look at the bigger picture & take a good look at what the situation will look like years down the road.
Jean	Langford	Huntsville	AL	I do not believe that humans should wipe out living species on this planet!!
Carol	Mone	Trinidad	CA	I don't care particularly for chub mackerel, but I care enormously about an intact ecosystem, & chub mackerel are an important link.
Anne	Harrison	Longmont	CO	I don't like extinction of our wildlife!
Kae	Bender	Lancaster	CA	I encourage you to consider the entire ocean ecosystem as you make your decisions on catch limits for forage fish essential to offshore marine life.
John	Rossi	Erie	PA	I fish--let's keep enough forage fish to maintain the rest of the oceanic food chain in the Atlantic.

Margie	Hunter	Nashville	TN	I fully support the stance in this letter & encourage you to set limits that will protect this important species. Thank you.
Dorothea	Leicher	Columbia Crossroads	PA	I have relatives in Newfoundland & so have seen closeup the devastation when a fishery has to be closed due to overfishing. Most fisheries in the world are close to that limit & we need to make sure they don't get pushed over the limit.
George	Gordon	Concord	MA	I like fish & hope my children able to like them too
Linda	Horn	Farmington	NM	I lived in Gloucester, Massachusetts, for many years, so I'm familiar how overfishing one species affects others. Please maintain a balance by instituting ecosystem-based catch limits for chub mackerel.
Donna	Brown	Galveston	TX	I love fish & I eat them with my family. The thing is that I want to always have them in the Oceans so we can keep eating them. For that reason we believe in catch limits & hope you will too.
Mary	Johnson	Mount Kisco	NY	I love mackerel! But it would be very wrong to overfish them. The fish that prey on mackerel are also both economically important & essential to the ecosystem.
Larry	Stoodt	Framingham	MA	I love whale watching deep sea fishing, & can't stand the thought of ecosystem collapse!
Sandra	Werner	Laramie	WY	I must have ecosystem-based catch limits for chub mackerel or there won't BE any chub mackerel or any other fish.
Pam	Wilbourn	Roseville	MI	I PRAY TO GOD TO PLEASE BLESS & PROTECT HIS MOST INNOCENTS,HIS ANIMALS!
Elizabeth	Baer	Saint Michaels	MD	I really want this planet to be saved for future generations

Terry	Jess	Albany	OR	I reiterate, Because of chub mackerel's importance as forage fish, managers must consider important ecosystem interactions when setting catch limits to ensure sustainability. Additionally, Do not allow oil exploration to continue or begin in these areas due to inherent toxicity.
William	Hewes	Sioux Falls	SD	I should not have to make this request. Just properly manage this fishery.
Susanna	Askins	Portland	OR	I shouldn't even have to be signing something like this. Ecosystem-based catch limits are the obvious choice if we don't all want to starve. Duh.
Gail	Klein	Stanford	CA	I strongly feel this is a critical long term step towards sustainability.
Susie	Duckworth	Oakton	VA	I support all measures that ensure healthy oceans, their ecosystems, & the species that reside therein. Properly managing fisheries will continue to be a vital part of those measures & protecting chub mackerel will be another important step.
Bobbie	Howard	Scottsdale	AZ	I support making our oceans healthier & more sustainable.
bonnie	austin	Plymouth	MI	I sure hope that whoever gets the job of protecting this fish does it right the first time around.
MARTA	FRANCIS	South Bend	IN	I think it is very important to set limits as we want the ecosystem to be protected.
Susan	Garelik	Swarthmore	PA	I urge SUSTAINABILITY as your your primary concern
Dennis	Wingle	Shoemakersville	PA	I urge that fisheries managers put in place ecosystem-placed catch limits for chub mackerel because these catch limits will ensure that there are sufficient populations of chub mackerel in our ocean so that the various fish & mammal predators which feed on these fish will always have sufficient populations of chub mackerel so that there will be sufficient populations of these predator populations. In addition, these imposed limits on the taking of chub mackerel will also benefit the local economy.
Peggy	Willis	Seattle	WA	I urge you to provide the maximum protection possible for forage fish.

				I urge you to take the time fully understand the role of these forage fish in the food web & assure that this resource is adequate as a food source for the pelagic species that depend on them before allowing commercial harvest. Thank you.
Charles	Ciecko	Gresham	OR
Janice	Hallman	Saint Paul	MN	I want a safe ecosystem for all fish populations so it is sustainable now & for all time to come.
Gwen	Straub	Nebo	NC	I want catch limits today so there are sustainable levels of chub mackerel for tomorrow!
Karolyn	Beebe	Madison	WI	I want our great-grandchildren to thank us like we can thank the indigenous First Nations for stewarding this planet in ways that allow us to thrive. I ask that their guiding spirits are welcome in your decision making.
Barbara	Van Walsen	Moorestown	NJ	I want see the marine animals being healthy. Don't take away their food.
Stuart	Heasman	Pueblo	CO	I want to ensure that catch limits are sustainable.
Paulette	Schindele	San Marcos	CA	I wholeheartedly support an ecosystem-based catch limits for chub mackerel. It is imperative that we protect the base of the ocean food chain.
Nancy	Bland	Virginia Beach	VA	I would refer you to the Grand Banks cod fishery, which supported countless fishermen & their families for decades until it collapsed due to over fishing in the latter half of the 20th century. It still hasn't recovered. A little common sense goes a long way.
Jeremy	Fryberger	Ketchum	ID	If humans don't act to defend non-human life, human activity will kill it all (including humanity).
Jenefer	Ellingston	Washington	DC	If it isn't this 'fish', it will be the next herd animal or bird.
willy	Aenlle	Woodstock	GA	If not now when?
Stephen&Joan	Parks	Bailey	CO	If not NOW, WHEN???????
Leslie	Williams	Bedford Hills	NY	If nothing else, please consider the long term negative impact on the Mid-Atlantic ecosystem.
gwendolyn	blaine	Burlington	VT	If the fish starve to death then we are eliminating our own food supply !!!

Richard	Van Aken	Churchville	PA	If the bottom of the food chain suffers loss than the top will to leaving us with fewer fish across the board. Not a healthy scenario.
Rose	Riker	Sioux City	IA	If the Chub mackerel goes extinct then many other marine life will go extinct as well. You cannot remove on link in the chain & expect the chain not to completely collapse!
Suzanne	Parodi	South Lake Tahoe	CA	If the ocean dies so do we
David	Kay	Portland	OR	If the Ocean dies we all die. Protect the resource!
Mary	Gathman	Wheaton	IL	If the ocean life is given time to recover from overfishing, perhaps a balance of nature will be achieved. Otherwise, there will be nothing left to fish.
Rebecca	Weinberg	Delray Beach	FL	If there isn't a reliable food source for the larger predator species, their numbers will dwindle. It is common sense to ensure a steady supply for them to forage!
robert	moeller	Stowe	VT	If we aren't careful these fish will disappear. Cod were once so abundant they were fished as if they would never end.
Colleen	Taylor	Portland	OR	If we destroy our oceans , we destroy ourselves.
Diana	Cowans	Bradenton	FL	If we do not act immediately to protect ocean life, we risk losing it all. So everything that we can do to responsibly fish our seas is critical. Please help with this step for chub mackerel.
Ann	Nevans	San Francisco	CA	If we do not act now these magnificent creatures will join the ranks of the extinct. Once gone they will never be again.
James	Melloh	South Portland	ME	If we do not act responsibly, we will lose this precious resource, & with it entire ocean ecosystem will deteriorate.
Mr & Mrs	Ericsen	White Plains	NY	If we do not get serious soon about our clean waters, over fishing, climate change will destroy the Eden God gave to us with our Earth!
C. Warren	Pope	ASHEVILLE	NC	If we do not protect ocean creatures, our harvest will dwindle.

Kathy	Miller	West Chester	PA	If we do not protect these fish, & allow overfishing, the next generation won't have them at all.
Rebecca	Nimmons	Bellevue	WA	If we don't do the right thing now for the environment & its creatures, we will ultimately be very sorry when the damage we cause threatens our survival. Not good.
Jackie	Critser	Wilsonville	OR	If we don't intelligently & scientifically manage our resources, our fisheries, then fisherfolk will really be in a fix & our food supplies will be seriously compromised.
Chris	Candell	Oakland	CA	If we don't treat chub mackerel desirable food species like marlin, stripped bass & so on. We can no longer look at forage species as unlimited & unimportant.
ELEN	GCHESA	Napa	CA	If we don't vigorously protect our oceans & sea life, there will be NOTHING for an overpopulating planet to eat!!
Lynne	Karson	Enfield	CT	If we overfish, there is nothing left to feed us in the future.
Debra	Jurey	Templeton	CA	If we protect our chub we provide for our fusheries & we keep a healthy balance so we dont wipe out in a few years if we dont take precautions.
John	Foxen	Clermont	FL	If we remove a link, the chain will fail.
Gary	Albright	Snohomish	WA	If we want a fishery we must promote the food supply of that fishery.
Sandra	Morey	Oakland	CA	If we want a healthy ocean ecosystem it is important to protect forage fish such as the chub mackerel by establishing catch limits. If we want to eat the larger species, they will need these fishes in their diets.
Deborah	Ross	Canandaigua	NY	If we want to eat tuna we have to let them eat!!
Ann C	McGill	Brunswick	OH	If we want to have a continuous supply of food from the Oceans, limits are required.
S.	Urton	Moscow	PA	If we want to have fish in the future, we need to protect them now.
r	c	Ashland	OR	If we want to keep fishing, we must be certain that fish are able to have the food needed for their survival...it only makes sense.

Mary	Wheat	New York	NY	If we wish to continue to enjoy tuna, marlin & striped bass (as well as other species), then we must protect forage fish such as club mackerel.
Debra	Lutje	The Dalles	OR	If you are not careful now we will all pay the price later.
Sharma	Gaponoff	Grass Valley	CA	If you do not protect forage fish, you ruin everything up the food chain. Be sensible, be responsible, be good caretakers of our costal ecosystems & fishing communities. Be sure you have good {sic real] science & that you understand the impacts of increasing catch limits of chub mackerel before you act. You have one chance here to get it right. Do the science so you can do make the right decisions that will sustain this fragile ecosystem rather than ruin it.
John	Ballo	Bensenville	IL	If you don't act - the extinct species limit on catch will be zero.YOU DON'T WANT THAT RESULT!
Douglas	Meyer	Guilford	CT	If you don't have a solid base at the bottom of the food chain, then every specie above is threatened.
Lynn	Glasscock	Portales	NM	If you don't want fishing to come to an abrupt end, protect chub mackerel so those fish you like to fish for have a food source.
Joe	Pickering Jr.	Bangor	ME	If you fish out our oceans you will lose your livelihood!
tim	dellas	Eureka	CA	If you listen closely you can hear the sound of 7 billion people eating the word into extinction, one species at a time.
Laurie	Zielinski	Cudahy	WI	If you over fish, there will be no fish left..then what will you do? We can't eat money.
Parrie	Henderson	Washington	DC	If you wait until the fishery collapses before you address the problem, it will be too late.
Sandra	Cobb	Moreland Hills	OH	If you want Chub Mackerel in your nets in the future, PROTECT THEM NOW.
Sandra	Cobb	Moreland Hills	MS	If you want seafood in the future. You had better enforce strong catch limits now.

Charles	Patterson	Norwell	MA	If you wipe out all the first level consumers the upper ones will die of starvation.
u.Hugo	Rupp	Oakland	CA	I'm pretty sure you know the argument in favor of protecting these fish & yet, since there's strength in numbers, consider those who caution you in the name of future fishery & a healthy ocean ecology.
M.	W.	Brookings	OR	I'm vegan - so I'm doing my part for chub mackerel.
Pamela	Hatfield	Asheville	NC	You?
Mary	Salome	San Francisco	CA	I'm vegan!
				I'm writing to appeal to your long-range vision for marine life, the oceans, & all of us.
Carmen	Lee	Boston	MA	I'm writing to you today because I care very much about the Mid-Atlantic ocean ecosystem. & to keep it healthy means chub mackerel must be protected. I rely on your leadership to make sure such protection actually happens & is done right from the start.
Susan	Hathcock	Lenoir City	TN	Immediately.
JD	Cleveland	Boulder	CO	Important!
Craig	Geiger	Olympia	WA	important, also endangered mammals in the oceans eat these too! we will run out of fish if we are not careful
Laura	Horowitz	Pittsburgh	PA	In order for our oceans to be healthy, we must keep a proper balance of aquatic life. The chub mackerel is an essential forage fish. Without their food, those fish can't survive & our oceans will be imperiled.

Elizabeth	Alexander	Memphis	TN	In order for the many species of fish that rely on chub mackerel for sustainability, you must have a good estimate of how many of each species exist, how many mackerel they need over their lifetime, & formulas to estimate all of the above. Please do not raise the catch limit until you know the fish that need mackerel to survive will have enough without being pushed into starvation. I do not believe that raising catch limits now is a good idea at all, especially without the math being done to show that the mackerel themselves will disappear & the fish that rely on them for survival will as well.
Jana	Perinchief	Sacramento	CA	In order to protect chub mackerel & the fishing communities that depend on them, ecosystem-based catch limits are the logical choice to ensure sustainability. Thank you for your consideration on this matter.
Charlotte	Singletary	Annandale	VA	In order to sustain the health & balance of the Atlantic's ecosystem, & to ensure that populations of foraging fish may continue to thrive, it is time to put protections in place. Catch limits placed on chub mackerel is a critical measure that can be taken so that larger predatory fish, sharks & marine mammals are afforded a plentiful supply of these fish to maintain a healthy food source. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The role of regulation, management & protection of MidAtlantic ecosystems from decimation is impactful to animal survival, the livelihoods of our fishermen, & consumer dietary needs alike. To take action & place catch limits on chub mackerel now is to have foresight into the health, sustainability & longevity of both animal & human lives.

raymond	Wager	Middlesex	NY	In spite of their size our oceans & their inhabitants are vulnerable to severe depletion. Jacque Cousteau warned us decades ago that this would happen if we failed to take care.
Susan	Hanger	Topanga	CA	In these perilous times for the natural world, we must protect the oceans & its important species. Surely we can do this.
Michael	Brezin	Tallahassee	FL	In this time of growing human populations & changing ocean environments with rising water temperature, increased acidity, plastic pollution, etc., we need to do all we can to support vibrant marine ecosystems . . . & it all starts low on the food chain!
Nancy	Kassim Farran	Brooklyn	NY	Increasing the limits of fishing population is questionable at best due to the overall depletion of large marine life in general. Serious consideration must be taken to assure the continued food chain for marine life overall.
Donna	Verdugo	Berwyn	IL	Intelligent, responsible decisions have to be made regardless of the pull of greed . Responsible management is extremely necessary to protect a healthy total environment for ALL of us.
David	Kagan	Jersey Shore	PA	Isn't this the obvious & only course to take?
Bruce	Anderson	Rolling Meadows	IL	It all works together. You must sustain feeder fish to grow the populations of the fish we need to harvest.
Janet	Denton	Las Vegas	NV	It has been given to us to take care of the earth & it's creatures, we all must be held accountable.
fran	merker	Brooklyn	NY	it is about sustaining populations so there is enough to go around. it is sound policy & must be adhered to & respected.
Paulette	Zimmerman	St. Louis	MO	It is absolutely crucial that we do all we can to preserve entire ecosystems.
Steve	Robey	Berkeley	CA	It is absolutely urgent that you better protect these very important stock!

Maurine	Canarsky	Portland	OR	It is always a good idea to make certain that there is a balance maintained in ecosystems. You know already that this prevents environmental, habitat & wildlife degradation & destruction. These catch limits on chub mackerel will do just that & promote a healthy balance to aid in supporting their predators.
Stuart	Mork	Seattle	WA	It is critical that we protect the forage fish at the bottom of the food chain. Without them there can be no management of other species.
Jennifer	Adams	Rockford	IL	It is critical to support them. Do the right thing.
Janet	Lynch	Pownal	ME	It is essential that fisheries managers take into account entire ecosystems & food chains. Chub mackerel are essential food for commercially important species. These species cannot be adequately managed or protected without protecting their food source. The Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council must act to ensure plentiful stocks of chub mackerel to support larger commercially important species & the entire ecosystem. Successful fisheries management must take into account entire ecosystems.
Stuart	Ours	Washington	NJ	It is imperative that the base of the food chain be protected. Without them, the more valuable species will be in peril.
Paul	Formisano	Swansea	MA	It is important to consider the impact of our fishing practices on fish populations & set policy that is beneficial for long term sustainability for both fish & fishing. If we get it wrong we all lose.
Bonnie	Wassmer	Lathrop	CA	It is important to have a sustainable, humane plan. All species are necessary & have a right to live.
Ed	Loosli	Portland	OR	It is long overdue to regulate chub mackerel catch & the catch limit should be the lowest possible in order to protect the marine ecosystem.
Lyda	Stillwell	Kalamazoo	MI	It is much too easy to deplete fish: think COD!
Linda	Askey	Birmingham	AL	It is our duty to sustain the gifts of this earth for generations to come.

Lavonne	Engelman	Mars Hill	NC	It is predicted the ocean may be empty of fish by 2048. Steps need to be taken now to stop this & to begin allowing fish populations to rebound.
Diana	Cumming	Minneapolis	MN	It is so important now to think about the entire fishery system. If we want to continue to eat fish, we must manage our taking.
Rebecca	Walding	Cerrillos	NM	It is so important to look at the whole ocean to make decisions for it. Please do what is right for the ocean, not just us humans!
vance	arquilla	Los Angeles	CA	it is so important to not over fish
Janet	Hershberger	Pine Bush	NY	It is the decent & practical thing to do.
A	SHOUSE	Ithaca	NY	IT IS TIME!
Barry	Horney	Howell	MI	It is very reassuring to know that a critical forage species which supports a major Atlantic fishery will be proactively managed as part of understanding & protecting the greater ecosystem.
Carol	Batchelder	East Providence	RI	It is vital that the 'eco system' be preserved to ensure a viable healthy planet.
Donald	Harland	Candler	NC	It is vital that we protect one of the key fish in the foundation of the food chain. We must protect Chub Mackerel!
catherine	quinlog	Westminster	CA	It is vital to keep the ecosystem functioning in spite of humans, over fishing will cause harm that may not be reversed.
Howard	Stein	Chicago	IL	It is vitally important to preserve the ecosystem of this ocean region, for the sake both of the economic health of the fisheries & the nutritional needs of those who consume fish in their regular diet.
Hannah	Salvatore	Robesonia	PA	It just makes sense.
Thomas	Talbot	Anthony	NM	It should be pretty obvious that if we continue to overfish, the whole food chain of our oceans can & will eventually break down.
Peter	Ayres	Naperville	IL	It's a healthier ocean for all when we think & act to maintain & support all the life systems. Each needs the other, us included.
Robert & Rosalie	Murray	Blairstown	NJ	It's a no brainer! Catch limits protect for the future - no limits, no mackerel!!!

Rick	Romito	Bellingham	WA	It's critical we do everything possible to maintain our food fish. Please protect the long term health of this critical population.
Billie	Abbott	Sweet Home	OR	It's good for the consumer, good for the fish & good for the fishermen.
Maryke	Petruzzi	Nyack	NY	It's imperative to keep the eco system balanced to protect the waters health to support life.
John	Wienert	Atlanta	GA	It's important for the fish which feed on chub mackerel to have enough to eat & sustain their own populations.
sarah	sweedler	san francisco	CA	It's important that we set protections & ensure we don't over fish chub mackerel.
M	Chamberlain	Newport	NH	It's important to keep the ecosystem intact, if it dies everything else will.
Elaine	Mayer	Rochester	MN	It's important to limit chub mackerel for the survival of our eco-system.
Kathleen	Trinity	Acton	CA	It's only common sense that if you overfish, the fish population will be depleted. Why not be logical & leave a sustainable population?
Bob	Karcich	Medford	OR	It's only the food chain...duh!!!
Claudia	Miller	Key West	FL	It's our last chance!!
Mary	Kraeszig	Zionsville	IN	It's simple. No forage fish, no commercial or sport fish. Protect chub mackerel.
Tatjana	Walker	San Antonio	TX	It's so important to protect these populations for the benefit of people & the predator species that need them!
Bonnie	Duman	Deerfield	IL	It's very important to fish responsibly.
Sherrill	Futrell	Davis	CA	Just do your job, please. Thanks.
Diana	Rowell	Florence	AZ	Keep allowing ALL species to go extinct & YOUR children/grandchildren WILL BE NEXT. It REALLY is that simple!
Joan	Rodman	Santa Monica	CA	Keep fish populations healthy & thriving.
warren	cushway	Bay City	MI	keep of resources viable
Winifred	Johanson	New Providence	NJ	Keep our ocean ecosystem in balance. Protect chub mackerel. Thanks.
Diane	Garetz	Hopkins	MN	keep the eco systems healthy.
Laurie	McLaughlin	San Diego	CA	Keep the fish ecosystem healthy!
Carol Ann	Brady,R.N.	Valley Forge	PA	Keep the system in balance.
Tom	Bailey	Concord	MA	Keep up the good work!
Arthur	Gilroy	Wharton	NJ	Keeping our Seas safe is a priority for a health Planet.
Jim & Sophie	Swirczynski	Eugene	OR	Key word: ecosystem

sharyn	wisdom	Mesquite	TX	learn from the history of fishing & don't allow over fishing..set some strict limits please
Patricia	Quinn	Norfolk	VA	Leave enough Chub Mackerel in the ocean for the commercially valuable species & the species favored by sports fishermen. Otherwise...there'll be no fish! Just common sense.
Matthew	Ford	Nazareth	PA	Lert's preserve chub mackerel for use for future generations.
Tracey	Bonner	Arlington	TX	let us have some common sense & save what we have. Nurture Nature for it to Survive & Thrive for future generations.
Ken	Lawson	Cohasset	CA	Let us work hard to not proceed with destroy the planet in the era of the dumbing down of every thing
Vernon	DeWitt	Jonestown	TX	Let us, for once, put science ahead of commerce when making a decision that affects such a vast thing as our eco-system.
Esteban	Torres	Winter Garden	FL	Let's ALL be responsible !
Elizabeth	Macias	Holtville	CA	LET'S BE REALISTIC , WE'RE KILLING OUR OCEANS & KNOWING THIS, WE CONTINUED DOING SO...LET'S DO THE RIGHT THING, LET'S LEARN HOW TO HELP & PREVENT UNESSESSARY KILLING, THX
Stephen	Kress	Ithaca	NY	lets be sure to leave enough in the water for big fish, & other predators!
Katayoon	Zandvakili	Oakland	CA	Let's do our best by these magnificent creatures! Thank you ~
Jeremy	Frost	Southport	CT	let's do the right thing for our oceans' fish stocks!
Edward	Tedtman	Boynton Beach	FL	Lets keep a balance of sea life. Man's greed will eventually kill everything on this delicate earth, including mankind.
Patricia	Sharp	Grass Valley	CA	Let's keep our marine life thriving. Let's learn from our mistakes about over harvesting.
Rev. J.	Coughlin	Norristown	PA	Let's keep the balance in mind... Nature's balance.
John	Brennan	Portland	OR	Let's keep the ecosystem intact.
Kora	von Wittelsbach	Ithaca	NY	Let's keep these guys with us!

David	Bryan	Carmel	NY	Let's no contribute anymore to species extinction. You are shooting yourself in the foot.
Attila	Kovats	Stevensville	MT	Let's not ignore the future, let's figure out how to get to a sustainable earth.
Philip	Roux	Berkeley	CA	Lets not manage the fish stocks to the end of collapse, leave some margin & don't increase catch limits because that is the squeaky wheel.
tevet	tee	Los Angeles	CA	Let's not risk a crash of fish populations...
tim	grabe	portland	OR	let's preserve small fish that are far down the food chain, such as chub mackerel
Alana	Crow Esq	Beverly Hills	CA	Let's protect chub mackerel! We have no right to ruin them ~
Sharon	Hurley	Normantown	WV	Let's protect everything we can in our polluted oceans!
Paul	Lauenstein	Sharon	MA	Let's protect forage fish at the base of the marine food web, which are vital to a healthy & sustainable marine ecosystem.
Juanita	Puntasecca	Lilburn	GA	Let's protect our ocean & the amazing creatures that live there.
Kathryn	Beck	Bellingham	WA	Lets protect the food source of our important fisheries & manage chub mackerel.
Carol	Sills	Baileys Harbor	WI	Thanks!
lynne	sootheran	Decorah	IA	Lets save the mid-ocean chub.
Marilyn	Crawford	Mesa	AZ	Lets start preserving what we have left. By some accounts we have already eliminated about 50% of the fish & other species in out ocean. Enough
Cate	Swan	Monte Rio	CA	Let's try to not kill off all the fish in the sea!
Mary	H	Sun City	AZ	Let's under-fish for a change.
				Limiting overfishing has always been a problem. I remember Jacques Cousteau reporting his predictions & warnings of overfishing around the world - overpopulation & wasteful practices are major problems now & whatever future remains for a healthy planet. Controlling Global warming along with overfishing are the two major challenges in maintaining healthy free waters around the earth. If you don't, there will be no future!

Karen	Graham	Plymouth	MN	Limiting your catches safeguards your livelihood as well as the earth.
Carol	Siewert	Madison	WI	Limits help promote a future in fishing.
Harold	Robinson	Talladega	AL	Limits need to be enacted to protect the species for the future.
Harry	White	Sunnyvale	CA	Limits to catching species of animals needs to be followed to keep the whole of life in the ocean alive, & that would include mackerel.
Kathy	Shimata	Honolulu	HI	Little fish support bigger fish.
Norm	Doebel	White Sulphur Springs	MT	Livable Planet-Long Term
Graciela	Huth	Los Angeles	CA	Live & let live. Live in harmony with other species. Do not break the wise balance of nature. Balance is the key to our own survival. Do not break it just to make one more dirty dollar!
George & Frances	Alderson	Catonsville	MD	Living in a coastal state, Maryland, we are very conscious of the decline in food fish & in the forage fish they depend upon. We want to see these populations restored, so we can again enjoy the bounty of the Atlantic Ocean as it used to be.
Ex-GOP William M	Smith Jr	Lake Placid	FL	Long-term health of fisheries depends on it.
David	Knopf	Framingham	MA	Look at the big picture, please.
Cindy	Stein	Thousand Oaks	CA	Mackerel's are being killed off at an alarming rate. There must be limits put on so they don't disappear.
Katharine	Butler	Cleveland Heights	OH	Mackerel are an essential part of an already stressed food chain. We need to make sure they are allowed to stay at a sustainable level & catch limits are part of that.
Constantine	Bogios	Walnut Creek	CA	Mackerel are key to a healthy fisheries they need our protection.
Arthur	Kennedy	Isla Vista	CA	mackerel feeds my sushi !
christine	bruce	Elyria	OH	Maintain ecological balance.
Deborah	Lyons	West Chester	PA	Maintaining an appropriate balance among the populations of different fish species is vital to preserving & supporting all varieties & a healthy underwater population.
R.	BUTLER	Kirkland	WA	Maintaining the circle of life & existence is critical to the health of our oceans & our planet.

Russell	Yttri	Saint Paul	MN	Make the oceans great again...
Douglas	Estes	San Francisco	CA	Manage now or you won't have anything to manage before long.
Cynthia	McFall	Allen	TX	Management of our oceans' ability to feed us all now & in the future should be goal number 1. Please don't be short-sighted & bow to commercial fishing & increase the limits on chub. This whole food chain is at stake.
John	Tarin	Boulder	CO	Management suggests leave some for tomorrow, not scour out everything now.
JIM	WARZ	Alpha	MI	Mankind is king of beasts, his brutality exceeds theirs. Do not hurt animals, we've hurt them enough; save their lives & preserve their habitats.
Laurel	Drew	Philadelphia	PA	Many fish species are now endangered--they need to be better/well-managed!
Pauline	Berkeley	Jacksonville	FL	Many species depend on Chub mackerel. Disrupting thieur important role in the ecosystem will cause much harm.
Shirley	Smith	Veneta	OR	Marine life & humans need Chub Mackerel. Please help us all & save them!!!
Nancy	Schimmel	Berkeley	CA	Marine mammals are starving here on the Pacific Coast. Please act to protect the ones in the Atlantic.
Judith	DiNardo	Stow	OH	Mid-Atlantic fisheries managers - protect chub mackerel! Chub mackerel are forage fish that serve an important ecosystem role in the Mid-Atlantic. They are VITAL to supporting offshore populations of tunas, billfish , marlin, & striped bass, as well as monkfish, summer flounder, & a variety of marine mammals & sharks.
Sandra	Bader	Harshaw	WI	Mid-Atlantic Fisheries Managers: Do Everything Possible to Protect Chub Mackerel! Set Limits!
nicholas	williams	lancaster	CA	Mid-Atlantic managers must ensure that enough chub mackerel are left in the ocean so that these predators have enough to eat & sustain their own populations.

Sadie	Sullivan Greiner	El Cajon	CA	Most of the world gets most of its protein from fish. By protecting the food chain at its base, we protect ourselves in the long term.
Carol	Brady	Antelope	CA	Must protect ALL animals.
Melinda	Parke	Seattle	WA	Must we take food from the mouths of other species while we procreate everyone else off the face of the earth & leave our progeny a barren planet ?
Mark	Philippe	Burlington	CT	My concern is that chub mackerel numbers are sustainable so that game fish have their nutritional needs met. Thank you
Barbara	Burke	Smith River	CA	My county is dependent upon fishing as its major industry ; we must save mackerel & the ocean ecosystem.
Anne	Harvey	San Diego	CA	My family & I, some of whom own & operate a seafood restaurant, want our oceans to be rich & healthy.
Elizabeth A	Trought	Dorchester	NH	My family needs fish to eat & without cub mackerel our fish supplies will be even more limited. It is now time for us all to start rationing to supply food for our families futures.
Joseph	Maryanski	Voorhees	NJ	My fisherman friends are concerned & so am I.
Bonnie	Jacobson	LONGVIEW	WA	My understanding is that the Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council is finalizing a policy to set chub mackerel catch limits. This is a much needed policy to ensure the long-term health of the ecosystem. Chub Mackerel are a primary food source for tunas, billfish, marlin, & striped bass, along with other fish like summer Flounder, & marine mammals & sharks. I urge you to finalize & implement this policy to protect our ocean's food resources. Thank you!
Joann	Sonenstein	Las Vegas	NV	Nature needs nourishment.
Janet	Brooks	Chattanooga Huntington	TN	Need to take the greedy stupid people out of the game.
Mike	Kelly	Beach	CA	No bait, no fish.

Bonnie J.	Smith	Christiansburg	VA	No reason exists why human desire should outweigh the physiological needs of other species that depend on chub mackeral for their very survival. Please be conscious & kind, & allow for a generous chub mackeral population for the population to support itself as those species depending on it. Thank you!
Edith	Alston	New York	NY	Nobody knows better than you that this balance of life needs to be maintained.
Matthew	Genaze	Cambridge	MA	Non human species are not on the planet to only serve humans desires. They are critical members of the ecosystems that humans rely for food, water & other resources. As such, they deserve an appropriate amount of respect & rights to ensure the well being of the ecosystems that we rely on.
Carmen	Lee	Boston	MA	Not many people in the Mid-Atlantic states have heard of chub mackerel.... but many of them (including myself) absolutely want a healthy ocean. That is why we all rely on you the experts to protect this forage fish & GET THEIR NUMBERS RIGHT from the beginning. Please don't let us down.
Wallice	johnsen	Nicolaus	CA	Now
Charles	Brumleve	Manhattan	KS	Now is the time to protect the fish that feed the economically important fish. Otherwise things can change for the worst. No fish.
jand	w	phx	AZ	Now is the time to set limits on all fishing, before it's too late, & encourage plant based eating.
Michelle	Pechie	North Providence	RI	Now more than ever, we need to protect our fisheries from over fishing. We have polluted & drug the oceans to the point of near collapse. Please do the right thing.

				Now retired, I worked with fishers on the Gulf Coast, Chesapeake Bay & North Atlantic. Cooperative agreements saved commercial & recreation fishing. Providing agreements that all must honor is needed so a few do not take advantage of all others & run n the resources. Please help the forage chub & thereby support both resource & fishing communities.

dagmar	mclaughlin	Palatine	IL	oceans, lakes, rivers are all food chains that are self sustaining until humans screw everything up.....again.....we can only steal so much from these food chains before they completely break down & then it's all over.....
Robert	Giambruno	Glendale	AZ	Once fished beyond ability to recover, they will disappear. No amount of money will make them come back. A clone is not an original. If price were not an issue would you prefer a copy of a Gaugin, Renoir, etc. over an original?
Hilary	Brown	Orlando	FL	Once our ecosystem is destroyed, there will be no going back. Please enforce catch limits to ensure ocean populations don't collapse. When they go, we go, too.
Rose	Jenkins	St. Louis	MO	Once over-fishing has achieved its end, no more fish. Those fish at the bottom of the chain go first.

Kyle	Kleckner	Berkley	MI	Once they're gone, you can't bring them back, so you need to do what you can to make sure they don't disappear.
L.	GRAY	Silverton	OR	Other fish gotta eat.
L.	Adams	Escondido	CA	Other up-chain fish depend on forage fish. We in turn depend on the larger fish.
rebecca	tippens	Colrain	MA	Our #1 duty is to keep our eco system in right balance!
Cheryl	Ritenbaugh	Minneapolis	MN	Our Atlantic ecosystem is in peril from ocean warming & acidification, & we need to give the larger species every opportunity to survive in difficult times. By over fishing the base of the trophic pyramid, the entire system is endangered. Limit the chub mackerel catch to levels that will protect the larger fish.
Pricilla	Smith	Tucson	AZ	Our ecosystem demands that ecosystem-based catch limits be set for chub mackerel. These fish are an important part of the ocean ecosystem!
Deborah	Gessaman	Tucson	AZ	Our eco-system is being compromised in so many big & small ways that we can't afford to break the links that connect it all together! Protect chub mackerel for the long-term health of the ecosystem & the economy!
Marilyn	Neff-Fulcher	St. Joseph	MO	Our ecosystem is in bad shape & getting worse everyday! We must take control of our ecosystem! Just go to the net & look up how bad is the Mid-Alantic ecosystem? Be educated on the issues & what you can do to help! In this instance the chub mackerel is very important as food for Marlins, tuna, monkfish, stripped bass & several others. Keeping that in mind Mid-Alantic fishery managers must make sure there is enough chub mackerel in Mid-Alantc to feed these other fish by setting catch limits on the chub mackerel! So important!!! Together we've got this!
Adele	Kapp	La Jolla	CA	Our ecosystem is very complex. Chub mackerel is very much a part of this system. Please put limits on the amount being caught.

George	Patterson	Philadelphia	PA	Our ecosystem-based catch limits for chub mackerel are vital for sea ecosystem.
Carol	Steinhart	Madison	WI	Our favorite predatory food fish can't sustain their populations unless their prey are protected.
Wendy	Raymond	Laguna Niguel	CA	Our marine species are mostly in catastrophic decline. We can not afford to abandon scientific research. Please please do anything & everything to help wildlife around the world
Rebecca	Richardson	Saint Louis	MO	Our mission as humans is to conserve & protect our resources. Period. No waste!! I am a former resident of Avalon, NJ, & I love fishing the bay & all of it. & we must preserve.
Kari	Percival	MALden	MA	Our ocean ecosystem needs informed holistic stewardship to protect our fish & be sure catch limits are sustainable to ensure survival of the fish in the future.
Constance M.	Hoguet	New York	NY	Our ocean resources are precious & hugely important to humanity's well being. We must do everything we can to preserve them for future generations. We need to protect the Chub mackerel as they play such an important role in the ocean ecosystem, which once destroyed, will be gone forever.
Chris	Daum	Stevensville	MT	Our oceans & seafood sources are suffering from mismanagement; we must take action to preserve the forage fish that are the building blocks for good fisheries.
Johnnie	McBride	Hastings	NE	Our oceans are already fished out of the largest fish varieties & we need to preserve what is left for the future. Without a balanced ecosystem, the oceans will be nothing but sharks & tiny fish, leaving a large hole in the food chain.
Lisa	Ramaci	New York	NY	Our oceans are being depleted; the dwindling populations must be preserved, which will take concrete action on your part. Make it happen!

				Our oceans are by far the most important ecosystem on our planet down to the very smallest living organisms & the protection of every species on every level is the only way to ensure our own survival. I eat fish on occasion & respect fishermen & care about the industry, however the Fishing industry must be the leader in taking care of the fish & ocean in which they make a living by making sure limits are in place & followed.

				Our oceans' ecosystems must be protected at all cost! This important forage fish must also be protected.
Susan	Allen	Raleigh	NC
DA	Lean	Kenmore	WA	Our oceans have a finite amount of fish. We must protect them!
				Our oceans inhabitants are losing ground daily. We must look to protect the mid-Atlantic chub mackerel, along with countless others to maintain a healthy ecosystem. Protecting our fisheries protects ourselves.
Elizabeth	Clemmey	Mansfield	MA
Sharon	Teagardin	Indianapolis	IN	Our seas are imperiled..please help take care of it by protecting the chub makerel
				Our seas have become polluted trash receptacles & soon we will have destroyed all of our marine life. It is time to stop this madness now!
Richard	Cruce	Atlanta	GA

Kristina	Ash	Hudson	IN	Over fishing is a threat to our oceans, among other dangers. Sustainable methods are not desired, they are MANDATORY these days to make sure we are not depleting natural resources of wildlife, as we are with salmon in Alaska that the bears rely on.
Sharon	Sprouse	San Diego	CA	Over fishing is huge issue & the situation is only getting worse. Those people who make their living fishing MUST find a way to balance their catch with protecting the fish that feed their catch, feed their families & feed other people in the world. Not sure how that can be done but a solution must be worked & NOW!
G	T	Veneta	OR	Over fishing is killing our oceans. Putting in moderate restrictions on species like chub mackerel, & their HABITAT, will keep our oceans relatively healthy which means they can be SUSTAINABLY harvested for humans.
paula	dejong	Cotuit	MA	Over fishing is not practical or ethical. When they are fished out there is no return. what part of forever gone do you not get. extinction is forever
George	Bond	New Orleans	LA	over fishing mean they disappear
Kari	Sabrie	Alexandria	VA	Overfishing has always been an issue. By placing limits, we provide the opportunity for the species to recover for the next generation.
Lucy	DuRoche	Minneapolis	MN	Overfishing is a genuine concern, particularly since chub mackerel is marketed as cheap fish. Moreover, I can deep-six the fish loaf & change my eating habits a lot easier than a top predator fish can.
Ann	White	Eureka	CA	Overfishing is causing the collapse of life in the oceans. All species have an important role to play in the web of ocean life. Whether your interest is in the commercial aspects of the sea or just plain aesthetic viewing of ocean creatures the object should focus on preservation. Preservation & protection of all species-for a balanced & bountiful ocean.

Mary Ann	Jones	Tucson	AZ	Overfishing is illogical & greedy. There is no rational excuse for it.
Jan	Gates	Napa	CA	Overfishing is increasing as a global problem. Please set reasonable limits to insure the health of the Mid-Atlantic ecosystem!
Thomas S.	Kirk	Palenville	NY	Overfishing is literally killing us ALL !!
Gaia	Schubert	Colorado Springs	CO	Overfishing kills species! Short-sighted from GREED!!!
Sarah	Adams	College Station	TX	Overfishing one population of fish leads to declines in others. We must be conservative & prevent overfishing!
Margret	Schreck	Sun City West	AZ	Oversight & catch limits (not necessarily in that order) are clearly necessary.
Arlene	Benson	San Jose	CA	People can't eat the ocean empty Leave this fish for other fish to eat They do not have other options People can eat other foods Plants grains etc
Mary Sue	Baker	Sarasota	FL	People have to realize that all animal populations are finite. Humans with their superior brain should do all they can to preserve this planet.
Greg	Gazzana	Wesley Chapel	FL	Planet before profit!
Christopher	Feehan	Tallahassee	FL	Please
Jennifer	Christiano	Boise	ID	PLEASE AVOID FUTURE CRISIS BY GETTING THIS CORRECT NOW!!! We are literally drowning in unfolding environmental disasters caused by planners & experts who confused monitoring of consequences with prevention, & short term gain with long-term sustainability. Our margins for error while providing a habitable environment in perpetuity have grown very slim. Mistakes made now will be nearly impossible to fix & prove catastrophic in the not so distant future. Look at the chub mackerel as the keystone of the environmental architecture, & insure that the keystone is sufficiently robust & healthy to keep the rest of the living structure healthy!
Charlie	Speno	Durango	CO	PLEASE - DO THE RIGHT, SUSTAINABLE THING
Joseph	Gordon	Washington	DC	Please act now for the future of our oceans & humanity.

Chris	Dildine	Loveland	CO	Please adequately protect chub mackerel for sustainability of other species dependent on this type of fish & to protect the ecosystem as a whole.
Bonnie	MacRaith	Arcata	CA	Please always protect our treasured marine life & the health of the ocean!
Lynnette	Royce	Bishop	CA	Please base catch limits on science. Thank you.
Brenda	Frey	West Seneca	NY	Please be smart & make sure mid Atlantic Mackerel are always here so have catch limits.
Marsha	Hentzel	Maryland Heights	MO	Please care ...
				Please consider my request detailed below. This is not difficult & can provide a more robust future for mackerel.
Royal	Graves	Wethersfield	CT	The impacts of climate change on the mackerel (and other fish) is not well known. The warming oceans are likely to disrupt their environment & put additional stress on maintaining a sufficient population.
Cathy	White	Mountain View	CA	Please consider the health of the ecosystem now & long range. Thank you
Jay	Groppe	Lancaster	TX	Please consider the long term effects on the whole of fisheries target than solely shortterm, transient gains by a few while making your management decision. Thank you
Walter	Bishop	Elephant Butte	NM	Please consider the whole ecosystem. If one pillar is weakened, the whole system can crash.
Beverly	Williams	Arlington	MA	Please continue to keep our oceans as healthy as possible. Thank you!
Mark	Hudson	New York	NY	Please continue to research & notify public our Ocean status.
Stephanie	Hammond	Flagstaff	AZ	Please do all in your power to protect these important fish.
Jan	Tullis	Providence	RI	Please do not allow an increase in catch limits of chub mackerel - they are of vital importance to the entire food chain in the ocean ecosystem. We must leave enough of them for other higher-up species to eat - because those species are also part of valuable fisheries!

Susan	Mathews	Beaufort	SC	Please do not ruin it for everyone that comes in the next 10 years.
Becky	Cunningham	San Francisco	CA	Please do right.
joel	gelb	Ponte Vedra Beach	FL	please do the best policy to protect our ocean.
				Please do the right thing & set these new catch limits with caution. Commercial fishermen trying to catch chub mackerel are not the only ones whose views matter here. Your responsibility is to do what is in the wider American public's interest, & that is sustainable stewardship of our natural marine resources.
Christine	Fletcher	Arlington	VA
Linda	Riebel	lafayette	CA	Please do the right thing!
Theresa	Castillo	Sacramento	CA	Please do the right thing!
Caroline	Kane	Verona	NJ	Please do the right thing!
Lilly	Mahaney	Leland	MI	Please do the right thing.
Oliver	Guichard	Partlow	VA	Please do the right thing.
Scott	Kosatka	Mountain Home	AR	Please do the right thing. It is not always easy, but it is always right.
				Please do us all a favor & protect the ocean's ecosystem - a drastic decline in the Chub Mackerel will inevitably create a trophic cascade with disastrous effects, as is the case for all ocean predators (and primary producers/coral, for that matter). Logic says protecting these fish now will keep the fishing industry thriving for many more years, hopefully indefinitely if we respect the Earth's natural processes. Don't put yourselves & future fishery employees out of work just for the immediate profit - think long-term about future generations & even your own lifetime. Thank you for caring about humankind & our precious planet.
Kelly	Harris	Raleigh	NC
Linda	Nelson	Moorhead	MN	Please do what is best for the oceans...not just for profits.
Sue	Savitt	Sedona	AZ	Please do your part in protecting the ecosystem of the only planet we have!
don	dicken	Ellensburg	WA	please do your part to preserve our world.
Theresa	Melof	Hillsboro	OR	Please don't increase limits!

Laurie	DeWitt	Baltimore	MD	Please don't increase catch limits on the chub mackerel. We've already seen many devastating effects of overfishing in our waterways on this planet.
Judith	Fisher	Mesa	AZ	Please don't mess up the ecosystem in the Mid-Atlantic. They are vital to the success of many of our favorite fish like Tuna, Billfish, marlin & striped bass to name a few.
kym	harris	Kailua Kona	HI	Please don't take all the fish!
Bryan	Bouma	Santa Clara	CA	Please ensure the Atlantic fishery ecosystems stays healthy. Set realistic limits so that the entire food chain stays intact instead of putting $$$ into someone's pocket. You get one chance to get this right & when you destroy an ecosystem is never recovers.
Stephen	Hopkins	Rye	NY	Please err on the side of caution when setting the take limits for Chubb Mackerel. Its better to create a sizeable safety net now, than have to close the fishery later to let stocks rebuild. Don't forget, once they fall below a certain level, they won't come back; especially considering the changes in the ocean due to climate change. Please take great care in setting the quotas. The entire ocean ecosystem will thank you!
Lisa	Kingsley	Norfolk	VA	PLEASE HAVE A HEART & DO THE RIGHT THING.

Nancy	McBride	Dunlap	TN	Please help save our Earth & ALL that lives on it.
Sudie	Moyse	BatonRouge	LA	Please help them !
Kelly	Demarcello	Trenton	NJ	Please help them now.

				Please help to maintain populations of this important forage fish species. We have the science to understand the role that such species play in maintaining a healthy food web for other species that are part of our fishery. Please listen to those data, & apply rational catch limits.
Bruce	Aird	Lake Forest	CA
Susan	Curry	Elizabethtown	PA	Please help us all be responsible caretakers of all our wonderful creatures.
Surya-Patricia	Hood	Phoenix	AZ	Please help us have a balance in fishing; don't over-fish so that there is plenty in the ocean.
Jeremy	Wales	Evansville	MN	Please honor mackerel, & their place in the ocean scheme of things. Thank you
Mark	Hixon	Honolulu	HI	Please implement ecosystem-based catch limits on this important forage fish.
Diane	Young	Franklin	ME	Please initiate chub mackerel limits to preserve large fish species! Thanks for your attention in this important issue!
Nancy	Morgan	Fort Collins	CO	Please insure sustainability of this important forage fish as well & follow the science.
Mary	Mester	Bridgeport	PA	Please insure that the chain of life continues.
Sherron	Bull	Kailua Kona	HI	Please insure the sustainability of the chub mackerel as it is an important forage fish & any catch limit increase could have impacts on coastal ecosystems as well as fishing communities.
Mary	Mobley	Live Oak	FL	Please just stop!
Ruth	Feldman	Alamo	CA	Please keep the Balance1 Ocean dwellers must eat, too! Do NOT deplete the balanced system; ensure that chub mackerel are left so that predators can eat.
Judith	Castiano	Peoria	AZ	Please KEEP THE ECOSYSTEM IN TACT & IN WORKING ORDER. Chub mackerel are ABSOLUTELY ESSENTIAL in supporting offshore populations of so many other fish species. Mid-Atlantic managers MUST ENSURE that ENOUGH chub mackerel left in the ocean so that predators have enough to eat & can sustain their own populations. We MUST PROTECT the ocean's ecosystems!!

Judy	Young	Houston	TX	Please limit the chub mackerel catch limit to ensure a healthy marine coastal ecosystem!
Cathy	Thornburn	Los Angeles	CA	Please limit the fishing of chub mackerel to help populations of marine life who depend on them for survival.
Carol	Smith	Lake Point	UT	Please make sure you understand the impact to all Marine Life. Don't jeopardize their habitat do an extensive review.
Cheryl	Townsend	Redondo Beach	CA	Please manage all fisheries with the top priority of maintaining each species with a large margin to be certain it's continues to thrive.
John	Moy	Sanibel	FL	Please manage our fisheries as an ecosystem. Chub mackerel are an important forage fish for tunas, billfish, & many other predators that need enough to eat!
Kimberly	Dinda	Rochester Hills	MI	Please protect & preserve the health & welfare of our ecosystem for the future!
Catherine	Bylinowski	Independence	MO	Please protect chub mackerel for the long term health of the marine ecosystem & the economy. If I hear more news about the unsustainable & unethical practices of fishery managers & fisherman, I will completely stop eating seafood & make sure that my friends & colleagues become educated on the potentially detrimental effects of ill-planned fishery management. Be on the right side of history & saving the planet.
Yvonne	Smith	Upland	CA	Please protect chub mackerel for the long-term health of the ecosystem & the economy! Thank you for your care, concern, & consideration.
Carol	Jurczewski	Riverside	IL	Please protect chub mackerel from being overfished!
Deborah	Boedeker	Providence	RI	Please protect chub mackerel from over-fishing; we need this vital species to survive & flourish.
Donna	Von Bargen, PhD	Winston Salem	NC	Please protect chub mackerel in the Mid-Atlantic. As a grandmother my passion is preserving the environment for future generations. Please protect forage fish.

MARILYN	Bartnicki	Derry	NH	Please protect chub mackerel. They are important to to the ecosystem in the Mid-Atlantic.
Mary	Landrum	Franklin	KY	Please protect chubb mackerel from over fishing. It's crucial for the future of our planet.
Allan	Campbell	San Jose	CA	Please protect fish & have catch limits
Mario	Echevarria	Longmont	CO	Please protect God's creation!
Richard	Weiss	Seattle	WA	Please protect our fisheries politically & scientifically so that it becomes culturally ingrained in our national diverse human sciety.
Diane	Luck	Portland	OR	Please protect our marine life.
Kathy	Roediger	Phoenix	AZ	Please protect our ocean ecosystems for the future by ensuring the population of chub mackerel can support the predators that depend on them for food. Predators that we depend on for food & other byproducts. Ensuring the chub mackerel's future ensures our future.
Jaye	Bergen	Palo Alto	CA	Please protect populations of chub mackerel in the Atlantic. Allow populations to increase & control overfishing of chub mackerel
Holly	Quick	Nashville	TN	Please protect populations of chub mackerel, which are so important to the ecosystem in the Mid-Atlantic. Let's heal & preserve our precious environment!
Sara	Roderer	Henrico	VA	Please protect the chub mackerel I think there should be ecosystem-based catch limits to preserve the balance of this important food supply in the ocean. Overfishing of one type causes an imbalance in the fish populations. There are enough problems in our oceans with all types of debris & garbage, plus gas & oil from ships. We must curb over fishing for preservation of the chub mackerel.

Angela	Steinberg	Syracuse	NY	Please protect the chub mackerel now before it is too late.

Donna	Andrews	Grants Pass	OR	The current worldwide loss of biodiversity is popularly known as the sixth extinction: the sixth time in world history that a large number of species have disappeared in unusually rapid succession, caused this time not by asteroids or ice ages but by humans. When we think about losing biodiversity, we tend to think of the last northern white rhinos protected by armed guards, of polar bears on dwindling ice floes. Extinction is a visceral tragedy, universally understood: There is no coming back from it. The guilt of letting a unique species vanish is eternal. 				The geological record of natural history shows 5 great mass extinctions in earth's 4.5 billion years. When huge numbers of species become extinct, the biological role that they perform in maintaining any ecosystem is compromised & therefore the health of the ecosystem itself is compromised. These ecosystems throughout our planet are our life support system, as well as that of all other aquatic & terrestrial species. When the health of these ecosystems is compromised, our ability to survive on this planet effectively is also compromised. Many biologists are saying that we are presently living in the sixth great mass extinction because biodiversity on the earth is disappearing at a rate that is much faster than the natural rate (estimated to be about 1000 times faster than the natural rate). This is mostly due to human activity (such as human development of natural environments resulting in the loss of habitats for many wildlife species & therefore the loss of many of those species).

				The marine ecosystem is in crisis from pollution, over-fishing & greed. By-catch killing non-target species, many that are critical to the health of smaller commercial activity & at-risk species must be stopped. We - you - focus on short-term profits rather than a healthy & sustainable fisheries management & protecting off-limits areas to maintain & increase species health. To maintain a strong fisheries, conservation & action must be taken now at the state & federal level to preserve & grow jobs in that sector. Kowtowing to powerful industrial interests will not work & will not grow smaller, local, operations. Allowing agricultural & industrial pollution of the marine habitat is a death sentence to a wide range of marine fisheries. I urge in the strongest terms a management that is geared to a sustainable future, NOT short-term profits by big operators & decimation of species breeding stock...either conserve now or pay an ultimate price later .

Jean	Standish	New York	NY	The Mid-Atlantic fisheries managers should protect the chub mackerel!

The Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council is finalizing its policy to set catch limits on chub mackerel--a vital forage fish that supports offshore populations of fish, marine mammals, & sharks. To ensure sustainability, managers must consider the important ecosystem role of chub mackerel when setting these catch limits.

Chub mackerel serve an important ecosystem role in the Mid-Atlantic. They are vital to supporting offshore populations of tunas, billfish, marlin, & striped bass, as well as other species like monkfish, summer flounder, & a variety of marine mammals & sharks. Mid-Atlantic managers must ensure that enough chub mackerel are left in the ocean so that these predators have enough to eat & sustain their own populations.

Please ensure protections for chub mackerel for the long-term health of the ecosystem & the economy!

Here, this includes the maintenance of all forage fish, upon which so many other species depend. This includes, e.g., chub mackerel. Please do all that is necessary to see to it that these anchor fish are well preserved so that they & other species dependent on them will survive.
Dorothy	Wilkinson	Los Angeles	CA	We are stripping the ocean of fish, which is why whales, dolphins, sea lions & polar bears are dying of hunger! KNOCK IT OFF, you cretins! We're next!
Irene	Clark	Altamonte Springs	FL	We are their only voice.
Terrance	Stodolka	Huntington Beach	CA	We can not create biodiversity again after we remove it forever!
Rodney	Whisenhunt	Roseburg	OR	We can not longer ignore or wait to take action later with our fisheries & its ecosystem.
Charlotte	Fremaux	Harpers Ferry	WV	We cannot abandon science & fact when managing our planet's resources. The whole ecosystem must be considered in order to prevent species population collapse at any level. Please get this right from the beginning & do your duty to protect the entire marine community.

Jo Ann	McGreevy	North Bergen	NJ	We cannot continue to destroy our finite habitat! Period!
Gloria	Navan	Lawrenceville	GA	We cannot continue to feel we can clear the ocean of all its fish. We have to make plans for the future.
Rachel	Cairns	Hermiston	OR	We cannot destroy the ocean & it wildlife. It is too important.
Sandra	Seibel	PORTLAND	OR	We can't continue this way, if we want our resources to be there for our children.
Sandy	Baylis	Munger	MI	We can't overharvest. Using better management we ensure their existence for the future.
mary	brockway	Fishkill	NY	We care about the Fish & we care about the Ocean & the entire ecosystem
Anne	del Prado	Freeport	TX	We depend on the ocean & oceanic life, much more than we realize. Please limit fishing & catch limits, accordingly.
Tim	Jeffries	Bend	OR	We desperately need to think beyond quarterly profit statements by corporations & start realizing that there are natural limits to how much damage mining the oceans of fish species does.
Ciry	Null	Chiloquin	OR	We have a grave responsibility to be stewards of Creation, to ensure that every species is protected from needless extinction. The world is not ours to destroy!
Gail	Sredanovic	Menlo Park	CA	We have caused so much damage. It is time to be careful. The ecosystem is a whole complex.
Cheryl	Spinelli	Bloomfield	NJ	We have destroyed our forests, polluted our air, melted our ice caps, created more species eligible to be on the endangered list & are in the process of destroying the largest resource on the planet. When will it end?
Mercedes	Franklin	Panama City	FL	We have learned from past actions that one can't take a link out of the chain & expect it to function.
William (Bill)	Grant	Godfrey	IL	We need the Chub Macherel! We have only one Earth to save.
Susie	Bolser	Valrico	FL	We have smart people who know how to protect our fisheries. We need to listen to them.

Louise	Paulson	Chippewa Falls	WI	We have strict fishing quotas in WI. Do the right thing to protect the future of the ocean fish.
Sharon	Newman	West Chester	PA	We have to adopt & follow sustainability guidelines if we want to keep eating fish.
Claire	McKay	Austin	TX	We have to be smart about managing our resources & this is one step towards doing that in the Atlantic.
Mark	Van Valkenburgh	Berkeley	CA	We have to conserve & protect these forage fish. They're the foundation of our commercial fisheries & the basis of the ocean food chain!
jerry	johnson	Saint Louis	MO	We have to do more
Susan	Harrie	Grand Forks	ND	We have to ensure we save vital species or risk ecosystems failing, & eventually our planet failing!
Eleanor	Israel	Rainier	WA	We have to get these things right & manage fish & wildlife. Urgent now!
Terrell	Rodefer	Van Nuys	CA	We have to hold back & let these fish reproduce in large numbers or we won't have any at all in a short while.
Charlotte	Feck	Plummer	ID	We have to keep getting our fish to last several life times not go extinct like everything else...no over fishing
Kathleen	Davis	Marquette	MI	We have to protect animals!
Kit	Hastings-Kort	Mansfield Center	CT	We have to protect our food sources or they will be gone & of no use to future generations.
Janet	Eyre	San Francisco	CA	We have to protect the total marine food chain or we risk having oceans with no fish at all.
Renaë	McKeon	Bennington	NE	We have to stop overfishing our oceans! Chub mackerel are vital to a healthy ocean ecosystem & they must be protected so all marine wildlife thrive & survive.
Emily	Hauer	Frederick	MD	We humans must act responsibly when it comes to how we treat the environment around us. Everything is connected. Depleting one species upsets the balance.
Lynne	Kane	Chapel Hill	NC	We humans must manage sustainable fishing, balanced for all species to survive.
Cara	ONeill	Calistoga	CA	WE IMPERIL OURSELVES WHEN WE IMPERIL ANY OTHER LIVING CREATURE

Holly	Windle	Minneapolis	MN	We keep learning about marine ecosystems & need to adjust our policies to maintain a healthy fish population.
Pippa	Pearthree	Brooklyn	NY	We know for a fact the importance of forage fish for the health of other fish & marine mammals. Please protect chub mackerel.
g	clemson	Las Vegas	NV	We learned not to kill mindlessly EVERYTHING on land at least !
Joanne	Pennington	San Clemente	CA	We must be sustainable or there will be nothing left. ...our ocean will completely empty & nothing but carcass's hanging on the walls of big game fisherman's homes. We need to stop over fishing our beautiful blue marble one fish at a time...
Dawn	Foss	Albany	OR	We must begin to seriously manage resources, we are running out!
Rachel	Berg	New York	NY	We MUST conserve the fish in the oceans or the fish we like & other fish will be GONE sooner.
Margaret	Wells	Ventura	CA	We must do all possible to sustain this fish.
Carol	Guffey	Granbury	TX	We must do everything possible to keep our oceans healthy & viable.
Laurie	Burrage	West Barnstable	MA	We must do our best to preserve balance in our oceans ecosystem!
Robin	Sekerak	Deland	FL	We must ensure sustainability at all levels of these complex ecosystems.
Andy	McDonough	Libertyville	IL	We must have catch limits on these fish!!
Diana	Page	Nashville	TN	We must have knowledge for managing for sustainability. We must manage for sustainability.
Susan	Baker	Lincolnshire	IL	We must keep the ocean ecosystems balanced or suffer the consequences down the road.
john	furlong	Trevoise	PA	We must keep the population healthy & thriving mildred	jellema	Ypsilanti	MI	We must look to the future!
Bridgett	Heinly	San Diego	CA	We must manage our fisheries to ensure a healthy ecosystem in our oceans.
Nancy	Tomlinson	Oswego	NY	We must manage the eco-systems
M. Lou	Orr	Shoreline	WA	We must not allow the destruction of any species!!
Ruth	Cook	Mount Prospect	IL	WE MUST NOT DEplete THIS SPECIES. PLEASE HELP.
Christopher	Cioni	Sacramento	CA	We must not ignore the irreversible impacts from human activity

John	Hathaway	Redmond	OR	we must protect all fish's or else loose everything.
Linda	Evinger	Evansville	IN	We must protect all species!
Jean	Tabin	Park City	UT	We must protect Chub Mackerel & other forage fish or we truly risk losing larger fish & oceans mammals which depend on them.
MaryKay	Rodarte	Phelan	CA	We must protect forage fish to ensure our ocean is viable for years to come.
Mari	Heart	Boulder	CO	We MUST protect in our oceanic & coastal ecosystems! Do the right thing.
Diana	Crispi	Los Angeles	CA	We must protect our environment.
Randy	Sailer	Beulah	ND	we must protect our forage fish
Matthew	Van Brocklin	Harrisville	NY	We must protect our natural resources. America needs to use science & use best practice sustainable methods to ensure that future generations can continue to use & enjoy these priceless natural resources.
Joyce	Coombs	Corryton	TN	We must protect the forage fish if you want the predators!
CATHLEEN	BURNS	Saint Augustine	FL	We must protect the forage fish, protect chub mackerel for the long-term health of the ecosystem & the economy! these should be a no-take species
Patricia	Kraus	Plymouth Meeting	PA	We must protect the next generation, now.
Marie	Andreini	Lakeway	TX	We MUST PROTECT the ocean & ALL THAT LIVE THERE !!! It has a Precious Ecosystem & Life Exists because of it !!! Please do the right thing !! Thank You!
JUDY	DEATER	Rio Rancho	NM	WE MUST PROTECT THE OCEAN'S ECO SYSTEM.
Vicki	Brown	Ossian	IN	We must protect the ocean's ecosystem. We can't let it be destroyed -it's too important.
Doris	Verkamp	Charleston	IL	We must protect the sustainability of our oceans.
Gerry	Williams	Thousand Oaks	CA	we must protect the wealth of the sea & not squander its bounty.
Bonni	Scudder	Cedar Park	TX	We must protect them to balance our ecosystem
Lary	McKee	Gervais	OR	We MUST protect this so very important food fish in our oceans, if we do not then many, many species will die all the way down the food chain. Please protect them...

Maureen	Ahern	Dublin	NH	We must protect wile we can & before it is too late.
william	pogue	la mesa	CA	we must restore the numbers which we have removed, & make the earth have a future, again.
Therese	Hall	Carlsbad	CA	We must save our fish & ocean. Stop over fishing. All creatures deserve ethical treatment.
Elaine	Becker	Roanoke	VA	We MUST save species for future generations!
Valerie	Ranne	Sacramento	CA	We must stop altering the natural order of the ocean, or there will be nothing left.
Tom	Martin	Bellevue	WA	We must stop destroying our planet - set chub mackerel fishing limits!
Shan	Albert	Studio City	CA	We must stop pillaging our planet & it's resources. Our children & grandchildren will have a good reason to hate us.
Daryl	Gale	Los Angeles	CA	We must take care of our oceans & sea life!
Marlene & Bill	Ament	Apollo	PA	We MUST take care of the Ocean Ecosystem.
Kevin	O'Halloran	Bainbridge Island	WA	we need to be good stewards of the fish stocks that remain.
Ingrid	Hardy	Sedona	AZ	We need a balanced eco system.
William	Maynard	Bowie	MD	We need a balanced treatment of the bay.
Joanne	Kreil	Saylorsburg	PA	We need a healthy ocean. An unbalanced food chain hurts everyone & everything.
Eric	Schwartz	Williamsport	MD	We need a healthy ocean. Fishing restrictions are needed for this goal. Please do your job, & ensure that the ocean's health will not be further endangered by reckless & irresponsible fisheries management.
James	Neal	Nacogdoches	TX	We need a more sustainable fishery.
Jamie	Perron	Kittery	ME	We need a sustainable future in the fishing industry as well as all industry's.
Diana	Fralely	Beloit	WI	We need balance in the oceans. & to fish one bread out is not good for the integrity of the balance in the oceans.
Janet	Girard	Covina	CA	We need biodiversity in out oceans as well as land. It is vital to protect the numbers of these fish.
Margaret	Gruna	Greenfield	WI	We need catch limits to ensure our ocean ecosystems are sustained

Rondi	Saslow	Oakland	CA	We need diversity in our eco-systems.
Charles T	Walsh	North Attleboro	MA	We need ecosystem-based catch for the simple reason of better data produces better interpretation.
Daton	Dodson	Houston	TX	We need ecosystem-based catch limits for chub mackerel. Too many fish populations are being depleted due to over fishing of fish for human consumption.
Skip	Clement	Acworth	GA	We need forage fish. Don't let greed influence science.
andy	partin	Tazewell	TN	we need keep this fish in good stock number's so they are not cut down to were they know longer are part of food change for other fish.
Rose	Marteeny	Henderson	NV	we need limits for chub mackerel to insure a healthy fisheries for the future of the chub mackeral
William	Geoghegan	Albuquerque	NM	We need limits on the catch of the Chub Mackerel & on many other fish if they are to survive!
Colleen	Rodger	El Sobrante	CA	We need more long term management of our oceans if we want to have ocean life as a food option for everyone.
Joyce	Cochran	San Francisco	CA	We need our mackerel; we need our fish; we need our Earth.
Fred	Lavy	Harrisonburg	VA	We need the chub mackerel to support ocean life.
Susan	Janke	Kingman	AZ	We need the Earth, it doesn't need us...stop killing!
Mary C	Hebblewhite, Ph.D.	Sandy Springs	GA	We need the food chain to support ITSELF, & it won't if we scoop too much out for ourselves--- it must be self sustaining in order to sustain human needs
Carol-Ann	Lowe	Covina	CA	We need them & they need us.
Virginia	Murchison	West Orange	NJ	We need to allow for the number of fish in the ocean to increase. They face a warming ocean & pollution in addition to overfishing.
Terry	Dailey	North Little Rock	AR	We need to always seed the future
Stephen	Cunliffe	Port Townsend	WA	We need to attempt to stop the current extinction of as many species as we can.
Kirkland	Fuss	Lakewood	CO	We need to be better stewards of the natural world.

Christine	Cotler	Madisonville	TN	We need to be responsible for this fish's existence & not over fish. Please impart restrictions.
Reg	Jones	Bennington	VT	We need to be sure to preserve enough of the little fish so the big fish have enough to eat.
Peter	Mulshine	Phillipsburg	NJ	We need to Breech all dams ban weed killers restore anadromous fish populations
Tania	Kurman	Melbourne	FL	WE NEED TO CONSERVE OUR ENVIRONMENT
Ahmet	Argon	Keswick	VA	We need to consider fisheries management from the perspective of the entire food-chain: In order for signature species, such as tuna, to survive & flourish, we must also protect species that they feed on.
cecelia	whalen	Norwich	CT	We need to curtail the fishing quotas of the chub mackerel if we want to maintain these fish
Mary	Green	Kettering	OH	We need to do everything we can to keep the ocean healthy Please look long-term.
Dennis	Svenpladsen	Myrtle Point	OR	We need to do whatever we can to sustain what fisheries that we have left. When they are gone what are we going to do?
Thadeus	Dziekonski	Hamburg	NY	We need to ensure fisheries are maintained for future generations.
Don	Parsons	Las Vegas	NM	We need to ensure the future survival of chub mackerel. Every living thing in the ocean is part of a fragil web that is increasingly in danger of unraveling. I can not imagine trying to explain to my grand children how we did not do anything to stop the extinction from happening
James	Hartley	Arlington	VA	We need to fish all species sustainably. Anything less will eventually threaten us!
Chris	Rose	Petaluma	CA	We need to fish in a more sustainable manner to protect marine ecosystems & the fishing industry.
William	Spadel	Woodbury Heights	NJ	We need to get this right & this your chance to do it.
Sue Fan	Ferguson	West Palm Beach	FL	We need to keep a balance in the ocean! We have to stop driving species towards extinction.

				we need to keep natural balance which people abuse. Too many species disappears from the face of Earth because we do not know when to stop exploring this great planet & keep ecosystem in balance. So many animals go hungry as we taking away THEIR natural habitats.
Maria	Jablonska	Brooklyn	NY
Lynn	Zipse	Overland Park	KS	We need to keep the ocean's ecosystem balanced!
Elizabeth	Hightower	Fort Wayne	IN	We need to keep these fish.
Rosiris	Paniagua	Altadena	CA	We need to learn to coexist together.
Tammy	Lettieri	Coconut Creek	FL	We need to live in harmony with our precious planet not destroy it
Dorothy	Knudson	Walla Walla	WA	We need to maintain an ecological balance.
Deborah	Gambone	Wellington	FL	We need to manage fish populations better than in the 1900's; remember how the cod were fished to oblivion?
John	Tyo	Syracuse	NY	We need to manage our fisheries across the board if we want to sustain a healthy food source into the future.
Patricia	Hammel	Branford	CT	we need to manage our fishing so we do not deplete our fish anymore.
April	Reyna	Cudahy	WI	We need to preserve our eco system. It benefits every living being! It's our responsibility, for our children & our grandchildren.
Richard	Fish	Minneapolis	MN	We need to preserve the fisheries for future generations.
Tom & Patricia	Moreland	Port Townsend	WA	We need to protect & fish within limits for all species that depend on our resources.
John	Kraemer	Chippewa Falls	WI	We need to protect & preserve!
JJ	Flowers	Laguna Beach	CA	We need to protect ALL resources & wildlife & fish for the future, especially in light of the current massive species die off due to climate change. The future is counting on us to do the right thing.
Nancy	Fay-Muzar	Columbus	IN	We need to protect chub mackerel to maintain healthy populations. Fisheries should want the same. Ultimately, protection of the ocean ecosystem.
Gary	Gall	Cambria	CA	We need to protect fisheries so that we can keep fish abundant.

Dorothy	Pasko	Cumberland	WI	We need to protect our ecosystem & set low catch limits to sustain all offshore populations of our fishery.
Elaine	Gries	Ithaca	NY	We need to protect our fish & other animals! They are important in the life scheme.
Robert	Krone	Fort Worth	TX	We need to protect our fish stock to make sure that we don't over fish any one species.
pat	turney	Hayward	CA	We need to protect our fisheries by keeping the catch limits to sustainable ecosystem based numbers to avoid over-fishing!
Katherine	Wright	West Linn	OR	We need to protect our food sources!
Patricia	Waddleton	Hull	MA	We need to protect our marine life from the smallest organism to the biggest whale. All are important to the very survival of our planet!
Jill	Robertson	Amador City	CA	We need to protect our ocean species so the oceans are healthy & humane. Stop overfishing of chub mackerel.
Katalin	Weisz	Coatesville	PA	We need to protect our seas for future generations
Steve	Foley	Tucson	AZ	We need to protect the Atlantic food chain.
Annie	Malone	Davis	CA	We need to protect the diversity of life that keep the oceans viable. Without a sustainable marine environment, our lives will be in jeopardy.
Charlotte	Kramer	Telford	PA	We need to protect the fish that we like to eat by providing the food for them.
Phyllis	Park	Chillicothe	OH	We need to protect the forage fish species.
Dewayne	Evans	Steelville	MO	We need to protect them because of the important roll they play in this world. God made all things according to their purpose so please don't be greedy & protect this & all fish.
Maxine	Goodyear	Independence	IA	we need to protect these forage fish or the mainline fish will starve.
Carol	Porras	Odessa	TX	We need to protect this beautiful fish
Ellen	Hogarty	Kent	OH	We need to protect what is left.
Yvonne	Fisher	Playa Del Rey	CA	We need to respect the environment & take what we need & no more. It is because of excess consumption that we have caused detrimental harm.

Connie	Beck	El Cajon	CA	We need to start fishing sustainably before everything is gone.
Barbara	Russek	New Bedford	MA	We need to stop destroying our oceans. Humans are becoming like locusts, destroying everything in sight.
Kim	Grossman	Los Angeles	CA	We need to stop destroying the seas. Right now, we're killing the Goose that Lays Golden Eggs. The blind greed of Consumerism has turned destructive. We must stop destructive behaviors.
Renate	Pealer	Fairfield Township	OH	We need to sustain the needed number of chub mackerel so that there will be enough fish to do the important work of sustaining offshore fish such as tuna, marlin, striped bass, monkfish & many other valuable species. Please carefully study the beneficial impact of these fish before considering allowing an increase in catching them.
Louise	Smith	Fort Worth	TX	We need to take a long-term view on fish management. At one time, they said, that the passenger pigeon would never disappear, but it did!
Beverly	Simone	West Nyack	NY	We NEED to take better care of the Ocean ecosystems, & stop over-fishing, especially forage fish. Humans can so easily mess up the Natural balance of things.
Lesley	Hunt	Walnut Creek	CA	We need to take care of the food chain that supports the fish we eat. Also, the ocean's health in general.
Arlene	Steinberg	Philadelphia	PA	We need to take serious, science-based action to protect ocean ecosystems, not just guess at things or blame other species. The impact of increased catch is largely OURS & we have to make sure of our actions to ensure future well-being.
Abby	Hamilton	WOODLAND	CA	We need to try hard to keep ocean ecosystems as healthy as possible. The health of the whole world depends on populations of species that most of us don't ever see.
Ursula	Cohrs	Bay Village	OH	We need to watch ALL fish stock & protect more of them to avoid depletion!
Frederick	Bryant	Westlake	OH	We only have one planet & we must protect it for our descendants. I'm a conservative who values conservation

Eric	West	Port Orange	FL	We only have one planet, our nest. Don't crap in it.
Lynne	Brimecombe	Ann Arbor	MI	We should not disrupt the ecosystem. This could affect other fish/species.
Laura	Gray	Hauula	HI	We should use our best science to direct policy!!
Alison	Zyla	Clinton	CT	We shouldn't mess with Mother Nature since this affects are food chain & ecology of the oceans.
Doreen	Berholtz	Chicago	IL	We want to leave a better world for our descendants.
Linda	Davis	Bothell	WA	We want our ecosystem to be in balance!
Carol	Lowe	Redding	CA	We, as humans, need to protect not just individual species that are endangered; we also need to protect ecosystems, some of which we may not be aware of when we meddle with just one or two species, not realizing that there are more players involved.
David	Dragavon	Milwaukie	OR	Well, it's a string of events that happens if you over fish that species.. It effects every fish that makes a diet of them all the way up the food chain... Which effects YOU & ME..badly.
Lee	Bartell	Eastham	MA	Were Chub Mackerel able to speak up for themselves, this letter wouldn't be necessary. But they can't, so we need to do so for them. They need to be protected.
Robert	Hensman	Englewood	FL	We're going to keep doing all the stupid behavior of not taking care of nature & end up like Soylent Green
James	Vallejos	Aurora	CO	We're killing off the oceans populations.
Rev. Charlotte	Bear	San Jose	CA	We're killing the oceans by overfishing among other things.
Kelly	O'Brien	Phoenix	AZ	We're overfishing far too many species that help balance the ecosystem. Stop reducing the numbers of forage fish to protect all the species up the predatory ladder. By kicking out the supports from this ecosystem, everything else is harmed.

				We're watching the effects of loss of salmon, prey fish to our Orcas. The Orcas are starving for lack of salmon. Take a lesson from our situation & set ecologically sound catch limits before the cascading effect wipes out the predators as well as the prey.
Marianne	Edain	Langley	WA
David	Doane	Whitehouse	OH	We've already done too much damage to the eco-system. Please be more careful.
				We've got to maintain the health & balance of our oceans.
Anthony	Byrne	Wheaton	IL	Please do your part in preserving our seas.
Anastasia	Fiandaca	San Rafael	CA	We've got to protect the long term health of our fisheries.
				We've seen collapses of other fish that were so called "managed fisheries". If we neglect to use an ecosystem-based catch limit, then the chub mackerel will become one more fish that will not be available for human use.
Pamela	Weissman	Baltimore	MD
				What a beautiful fish! As someone who cares deeply about the health of our oceans, I am concerned about any species whose sustainability is threatened. These fish are not only beautiful, but a very important part of the ocean ecosystem & must be sustainably caught with sensible limits. Why is it always about US, never about other species?
Robin M	Baer	Lakewood	CO
				What happens when there are no small fish for the big fish to eat???? Shall we start hunting whales again????
James K	Hadcroft	Falmouth	MA
				What is just is just. What must be done must be done. What is just must be done. What is just & undone shall take its toll from those responsible, through action or through inaction. So it is. So it was. So it always will be. May it be that you have the wisdom & courage to do what is just.
Matthew	Vencill	Round Rock	TX
				When any species is affected, good or bad, it affects everything in the chain of life. We must never forget that!!
DIXIE	SPRINGER	Chandler	IN

Carla	DeCrona	Vashon	WA	When assessing catch limits for any species, we must incorporate their value & place in the larger web of life, the food chain, as well as their population dynamics. Please don't create a hole in the web by overfishing these mackerel
Annemarie	Avanti	Phoenix	AZ	When considering catch limits for chub mackerel, please assure that enough chub mackerel will remain in the ocean to provide vital food for tunas, billfish, marlin, striped bass, monkfish, summer flounder, & a variety of marine mammals & sharks. As you know, a healthy Mid-Atlantic ecosystem is dependant on forage fish, especially the chub mackerel.
joanne	katzen	Aptos	CA	When one species is decimated, the web of life is affected in a multitude of ways.
David	Sanford	East Greenwich	RI	When take all the Bait it kill all species !stop
Gregory	Danzker	North Babylon	NY	when the chub mackerel are gone whats next ? this is more important than your dame profit
Ginny	Rosenkranz	Portland	OR	when the oceans' ecosystems break down the whole earth's food chain breaks down!
Sandra	Woodall	San Antonio	TX	When we destroy the base of the food pyramid, the whole structure collapses.
Mark & Felice	Shapiro	Athens	GA	When will senseless torture & killing stop???
M	Coulter	Sacramento	CA	While fisheries are depleted, all commercial fishing should stop.
Anne	Gibson	Arlington	TX	Why doesn't everyone realize this planet is our only home & every group is vital to survival?
Lorrie	Stillings	Sebastopol	CA	Why don't these people see the impact of their actions? All they seem to care about is themselves & their money. Well, you can't eat or drink or breathe money, so that's just stupid.
Bobby	Lowe	Colville	WA	Why must we deplete every living eatable thing on this planet ?
C L	Scileppi	Tucson	AZ	Wilderness is not a luxury but a necessity of the human spirit, as vital to our lives as water & good bread. - Edward Abbey

Robert	Sikorski	Milwaukee	WI	Wildlife is precious & needs to be protected. Everything fits into nature's chain. We should protect the chain.
Nina	Wouk	Redwood City	CA	Wiping out other species that we can save is wrong.
GAIL	DAVIS	Las Vegas	NV	With catch limits it at least helps these Mackerels reproduce & survive! Over fishing will kill off these Beautiful Fish & once they are all killed its Forever... Humans must Stop being so Heartless & Greedy for money. There lives do matter, PLEASE don't let overfishing kill off another innocent Species...
Kari	Jensen	Eugene	OR	With ocean warming, the catches are becoming unpredictable & are reducing in number. It is in no one's interest to not impose strict catch limits on any fish right now. We are all in this together.
Laura	Zerr	Auburn	WA	With our dying oceans we must respond to the environment based on its ability to sustain not only the Chub mackerel but those that feed upon it.
Carla	Glaser	New York	NY	With so many species in peril, every one counts. Please protect the chub mackerel!
Karen	Hodges	Charlotte	NC	Without an adequate chub mackerel population, the Mid-Atlantic ecosystem cannot remain fully healthy & productive. If nothing else, our fisheries need these catch limits for their own benefit.
clark	crowe	Detroit	MI	without food the other fish die out.
Anthony	Weil	Piscataway	NJ	Without sustainable fishing you will be out of business in the near future. Please take that into consideration.
Tom	Creswell	Dallas	OR	Without these forage fish the entire ecosystem will eventually collapse. Each block in the chain must be in place for the system to function.
Patricia	Brown	Gloucester	MA	Without thriving biodiversity, our planet can't be whole.
Denise	Brown	Rockaway Park	NY	You are going to fish them into extinction, you fools!!!
Diane	Kossmann	Ft lauderdale	FL	You are killing the Oceans - STOP - get Educated time to undo all the horrific things man has done to the Oceans & Earth

				You cannot save a species without saving the ecosystem. All elements of an ecosystem must be sustainably managed if the top predators are expected to thrive. See that you do that with chub mackerel!
Craig	Nazor	Austin	TX
anne	hammond	Solon	OH	You can't deplete one aspect of nature without knocking all the dominos down.
				You can't ignore ecosystems & expect to miraculously continue to maintain catches of fish we depend on for food at current levels. Please consider the outcome of having catch limits rationally, rather than ignoring the consequences of not having limits.
Lyn	Miller	Albuquerque	NM
Bob	Plass	Los Banos	CA	You can't over fish the lower echelons of the food chain! If the we lose the chub mackerel, we will most certainly lose the higher ups in the food chain. Eventually that means losing humankind!
				You have to be wise & not destroy the ecosystem of natural waters. Do not overfish chub mackerel. Other fish are depending on you. Thank you
Kathie	O'Shea	Swanton	OH
				You have to realize that many depend upon chub mackerel & you are in the best position to see that they get it-a lot of responsibility but I hope you make the right decision
Susan	O'Rourke	Saint Petersburg	FL
				You know what should be done. Protect this species as they are crucial to the health of the ecosystem. Just do it.
Helen	Martin	Houston	TX
William	Heuser	Arcadia	CA	You MUST ACT to save the environment from human folly!
				You must know by now that overfishing will lead to an unbalanced ecosystem that will take centuries to recover. Climate change will only worsen the situation.
Courtenay	Smith	Renton	WA
Jeanne	Acosta-Caipe	Tampa	FL	You should know this_ why are you not doing your job??
Mark	Holmgren	Saint Petersburg	FL	You want fish, you need forage fish...lots of 'em.

				YOU WANT THEM TO SURVIVE, YOU WANT THEIR PREDATORS TO SURVIVE, YOU HAVE TO HAVE LIMITS! Humans have got to stop their greedy, uninformed behaviors; there is enough room here for all species if humans don't destroy it all.
Ruth	Lewis	Newport	WA
Jarret	Yoshida	Brooklyn	NY	You want these fish to disappear like so many species or should we try something different this time!?!
David	Davis	Basehor	KS	Your continual greed is killing our entire world.
