Dear Mr. Moore:

Please be advised that I support inclusion of New Jersey's 13 artificial reefs in the federal SMZ. The reefs were bought, paid for and managed with the money from New Jersey's sport fisherman not commercial interests. I would liken the situation to that of leased land for shellfish harvesters, most commonly clams. New Jersey has many acres of bay bottom leased by commercial shellfish harvesters. They are marked by stakes and the commercial clammer manages the leased area and is the sole beneficiary. Any ordinary clammer with a non-commercial license cannot harvest clams in that area.

Commercial interests had no part in the creation of these special fishing areas. They were meant from the beginning for hook and line sport fisherman and divers. Private citizens, conservaton and sport fishing organizations raise money for the creation of these reefs. The placement of pots, the dragging of nets on or near these areas is contrary to the intent and purpose of their creation.

Intensive commercial exploitation of these areas was neither intended nor can be tolerated. If commercial interests wish to create their own reefs and prevent sportfisherman and divers from using them, as in underwater oil and gas leases, let them.

Sincerely,
Ken Sass

To: Mid-Atlantic Fishery Management Council, Executive Director, Dr. Chris Moore

Dear Dr. Moore,

I am writing to support SMZ Status for NJ's 13 artificial reefs located in Federal waters as per the recommendation of the SMZ Monitoring Team.

New Jersey is nationally recognized as having some of the best artificial reefs in the nation. N.J.'s artificial reefs are funded with federal tax dollars placed on recreational goods and services and directly by contributions from the recreational saltwater fishing community. and SMZ status will further enhance the reefs and preserve them for use by those who paid for their construction..

Respectfully,

Gene Doebley

Dr. Christopher M. Moore
Executive Director
Mid-Atlantic Fisheries Management Council

Dear Dr. Moore:

I am writing on behalf of the Garden State Seafood Association (GSSA) in response to the proposal to create Special Management Zones around the 13 existing reefs in the EEZ off of NJ's coast. The GSSA does not outright oppose the creation of SMZ with NJ artificial reefs in the EEZ. However, we do oppose the removal of commercial fishing operation from all of these sights in light of the past funding from the commercial sector, original intent of the program, and the Federal Policy as it relates to Artificial Reefs.

We believe it is more appropriate and consistent with both Federal and State policy to set aside reefs for all use groups. GSSA recommends the MAMFC consider dividing the reefs equally among the four primary users groups (3 Dive reefs, 3 For Hire Charter, 3 Recreational, and 3 Commercial) and set the one remaining reef as a scientific no take zone. Thus each user group would be allocated three reefs one north, one south, and one centrally located as equitably as possible.

The New Jersey artificial reef program was taken over by the NJDEP in 1984. Prior to that time private organizations and individuals applied for permits from the Army Corp of Engineers to sink materials to make reefs. Both commercial and recreational sectors were involved in these operations with material historically being placed in close proximity to existing underwater structures. All of these reef structures were open for anyone to fish around—both commercial and recreational fishermen. There was no 'defacto' private leasing or zoning of ocean bottom.

It is worth noting that in 1984 when the Department developed the artificial reef program the initial funding stemmed from the Oyster Creek Nuclear Power plant. Over $400,000 was provided to the NJDEP to offset fish kills associated with the cooling of the facility. The commercial industry agreed to allow its portion of the funding ($200,000) to be used on the artificial reef program keeping in mind that the program allowed commercial fishing on the reefs, and limited the reef program to then proposed 10 to 15 sites. The plan was to provide additional structure to enhance historic lobster and fish habitat (pot sites) while limiting future expansion of the program into other fishing grounds harvested by bottom tending mobile gear. It is also worth noting that today all funding has been restored.

From 1984 until 2005 the NJDEP managed the artificial reef program explicitly for the benefit of both the commercial and recreational sector. During these years both the commercial and recreational groups donated vessels for reef maintenance and expansion.

The New Jersey Reef Management Plan (circa) 1987 stated, "the State of New Jersey - expects the program to achieve the following overall objectives: 1-improve catch per unit of effort (CPUE) for commercial and recreational harvesters of food and game species; 2- create fishing grounds for recreational and commercial fishermen"

In 2008 New Jersey's commercial pot fishermen transferred to the use of sinking line in all pot strings off of New Jersey. This sinking line, lies on the bottom of the ocean floor, and reduces risk to snagging recreational gear that sometimes occurred with floating rope between pots, thus further reducing any potential conflict of the user groups. The Recreation community has ample access to reefs. Commercial gear is not an impediment and in many cases is used as location aid for recreational fishermen. There is no conflict between groups and no conflict has been reported on reefs in federal waters. Conflicts arose at inshore reefs and that issue has been addressed.

Finally the NJ Reefs were sited on historic fishing grounds. The Axel Carlson reef was sited on an inshore stricter the commercial fishermen had used as Lobster grounds dating back to the 1950's known has the 'rump'. The expansion of the reef program has damaged some of these historic grounds, but enhanced the overall area. Therefore removal of commercial fishermen form these grounds completely would have a negative impact on the employment and the state's economy. The tourism industry though local restaurant, grocery stores, and fish markets enjoy the over 250,000 pounds of lobster caught each year by New Jersey's commercial fishermen.

Sincerely,

Dear Dr. Moore,

I am a recreational SCUBA diver and I dive regularly in New Jersey waters. I try to utilize our artificial reef system whenever possible for diving however; all be 2 of our artificial reef sites are dominated by commercial fishing traps that prohibit my access. Fixed commercial fishing gear requires miles of connecting ropes that create dangerous snag points for divers. You may only see two marker flags on the surface, but underwater ropes are draped over wreck sites ready to trap SCUBA divers.,

Our artificial reefs were not designed for highly efficient fixed fishing gear; they were constructed for rod and reel and spear fishing as stated in the approved Artificial Reef Plan. The fishing grounds off New Jersey offer thousands of rock piles, debris fields and natural wreck sites for commercial fishermen to lay their pot lines.

I'm writing to support SMZ status for the 13 reef sites located in Federal waters.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely yours,

F Macalik
